FOLLOWING EACH OTHER AROUND AND GETTING NO PLACE

Fear Murder of Kidnaped School Girl

Fears that Lillian Hochstrasser, former nursemaid who is alleged to have kidnaped 11-year-old Brunhilda Koellner, 2749 Osgood street, from school several days ago, may have killed the child were expressed yesterday by police of the Sheffield avenue station.

Several men who had known Miss Hochstrasser, a divorcee, were questioned. From them it was learned that she was subject to peculiar fits of temper and that she had a cruelly complex. Frank Koellner, a contractor, father of Brunhilda, said that she discharged her when he found that she was cruel to his children.

Meanwhile Gottlieb Hochstrasser, at his home on 17th avenue in Maywood, issued an appeal to his daughter to bring back the little girl.

"I want it put in the papers," he said, "that I hope she will send the child back unharmed to her father. If she does that I will stick by her and do all I can to get her out of trouble."

At the time he reported the matter to the police, Koellner said that Miss Hochstrasser had urged him to get rid of his children and marry her, but that he had declined and that she then started to terrorize them. Brunhilda was at a parochial school when the woman, who is about 28 years old, called for her. A teacher, believing she was still Koellner's housekeeper, permitted the child to go with her.

Henry Kinas, 610 South 6th avenue, Maywood, was one of those taken into custody by the police. He said that he had driven Miss Hochstrasser from her father's home to an address on Wrightwood avenue last Sunday morning, but had not seen her since. Bert Strobl, 1255 West Jackson boulevard, was questioned at the Sheffield avenue station. He said he had known the alleged kidnaper, but had not seen her for more than a year.

A third man reported that he had been engaged to marry her, but that they quarreled. He gave an account of her abnormalities, which included the wearing of a wig as a disguise.

BIND WATCHMEN, CRACK SAFE AT LYON & HEALY'S

Six masked men early this morning blew the safe in the cashier's office of Lyon & Healy at Wabash avenue and Jackson boulevard and escaped after having tied up and gagged two watchmen, a woman, and her thirteen year old son. It is the belief of the police that the men had stationed themselves in the building since Thursday afternoon, as they were unable to find how they had entered.

After binding up the watchman, John Prater, 5211 Maryland street, and James Burgess, they knocked on the door of the Ballantine studio, located on the same floor. There they found Sada Ballantine and her son, who were asleep. They took some jewelry and escaped.

After blowing the safe the men were careful to wipe off the door to avoid finding finger prints. The robbers left behind them several tools. C. H. Patterson, 6655 Patterson street, secretary of Lyon & Healy, could not say what the amount of the loss would be.

Woman Pays $1,650 for Glass 'Diamonds'; 2 Sought

Mrs. Anna Miller, owner of a second hand furniture store at 1813 West Lake street, appealed to the police yesterday for aid in getting back $1,650 which she gave a police officer to a stickpin, three rings, and an uncut bauble. The stranger told her they were diamonds, but expert examination disclosed that they were glass.

Another stranger, supposedly a confederate of the first swindler, is also being sought. He advised Mrs. Miller, who is a widow, to purchase the fake gems.

EUROPE LOOKING FOR STRONG MAN TO LICK U. S., GEN. MARCH SAYS

Denver, Colo., Feb. 3.—(AP)—Virtually every nation in Europe hates the United States, and Europe is seeking a strong man, such as Premier Mussolini of Italy, to lead it in knocking "Uncle Sam's block off his shoulders," Gen. Peyton C. March, former chief of staff of the United States army, declared here today. Gen. March has just completed a five year tour of the seventeen major countries of Europe.

"Mussolini, sprung up from the soil of Italy, has changed the face of his native country," said Gen. March, "and every other country wants a Mussolini. We fought our great world war so that democracy might live, but the nations of the old world are through with democracy. They want a dictator, a one-man government, a political samson."

"Each nation wants its giant to throw the hide off the United States. All Europe hates us, with the possible exception of Spain. European countries have stopped hating each other to unite in a grand hatefest against America."

Fast Train Off Track; None Seriously Hurt

Two sleepers of fast Wabash train No. 5, bound for Chicago from Detroit, were derailed shortly after 4 o'clock this morning three miles west of Wyand, Ind., which is 93 miles east of Chicago. Early reports were that the cars had turned over while the train was running at high speed, and that many persons were injured. Calls were immediately sent to Elkhart, South Bend and other cities for doctors, nurses and ambulances, and orders were given to send a relief train from Montpelier, Ohio.

Within a short time, however, the Chicago offices of the railroad announced that the cars had not turned over, that only two or three persons were hurt and that their injuries were slight. Doctors who went to the scene from South Bend, twelve miles away, found their services were not needed, officials of the road said.

Dr. J. A. Kuhn of Wyatt, one of the first on the scene, said that a few of the passengers received scratches and that a brakeman suffered a broken arm.

Five Killed, Four of One Family, in Auto-Train Crash

Washington, D. C., Feb. 3.—(AP)—Five persons were killed in a grade crossing accident at Kensington, Md., just outside of Washington, late tonight. Four were members of one family. They were returning from a card party in their automobile when struck by a Baltimore and Ohio train. The dead: W. A. Twombly, government employee; Mrs. Mary Twombly, his wife; Paul, a son, 27; Elizabeth, a daughter, 15, and Mrs. Grafton Holland.

U. S. Submarine Collides with Tanker; No Damage

Key West, Fla., Feb. 3.—(AP)—The United States submarine S-31, maneuvering near Dry Tortugas, collided early this afternoon with the steamship Birkenhead, but no damage was sustained by either vessel. It was announced at the naval station here tonight. Details were lacking. Marine records here showed that the Birkenhead, a tanker, sailed from Philadelphia on Jan. 2 for Texas City.

WHIP FOR CRITIC OF GLADSTONE, LANGTRY SAYS

Victorian Beauty Defends Premier.

A London jury yesterday, in exonerating Viscount Herbert Gladstone of the charge of libel, restored his father, the late William Ewart Gladstone, foremost Victorian statesman, to his high pedestal as an exemplar of British morals and virtue.

At the same time Lily Langtry, who had been charged by Gladstone's detractor, Capt. Wright, with having been the elder Gladstone's mistress, gave out an interview in Monte Carlo telling of her entirely virtuous relations with the great premier, who, she says, read Shakespeare to her and whose passion was religion. It is the first detailed present day interview from the Jersey Lily and the first real picture of her appearance and her surroundings, in the sunset of life, on the Riviera.

(Copyright: 1927: By The New York Times.)

NICE, France, Feb. 3.—"In the old days a thing like this would be settled by a horsewhipping in the Haymarket," Lady De Bathe, the former Lily Langtry, famous beauty and actress, said today at her villa, "Lilly," in Monte Carlo.

"I acknowledge the courtesy of Capt. Wright in allowing my reputation to be read in court," she added, "but I would have been glad if his courtesy had begun a little earlier and had led him to reflect upon the necessity of accuracy in a modern volume of memoirs, even when dealing with people almost belonging to the past generation."

Although upon her walls there are reminders that Lily Langtry is in fact of pre-war fame—there is her portrait by Poynter, engravings of her portrait by Sir John E. Millais, in whose studio she first met Gladstone (the great liberal prime minister of Great Britain, whose mistress Capt. Wright charged she had been), numbers of photographs of King Edward, Queen Alexandra, King George and Queen Mary—it is difficult to imagine that the charming, short skirted, good looking Lady De Bathe was the idol of the mid-Victorian stage.

Opera Her Recreation

She has been living for some time in a small but charming villa hung up on the cliffs over the Chapel Sainte Devote, known to all frequenters of Monte Carlo. She plays her part in social life, and usually goes to the opera, which is her greatest recreation. She has no other desire left but for peace.

The storm aroused by the Wright case both upset and pleased her. When the first news of the Wright allegations reached her, Monte Carlo went whether she would go to the Sporting club as usual. She decided to do so, and was overwhelmed by the sympathy displayed by everybody. Several women friends kissed her at the green tables. There were also many telegrams from friends in Britain.

Tells of Meeting Gladstone

"While sympathy is very charming, it does not entirely make up for the pain caused by the Wright-Gladstone allegation," she explained today.

She has always said that Lily has been willing to take the blame for the things she has done. It is hard now to have the blame fastened on me for things I never did and be a weapon for an attack upon the memory of a man for whom I have always had the greatest respect.

"Years ago I went everywhere in London. I met Mr. Gladstone quite casually at the studio of Mr. Millais when he was painting my portrait. Some time after, when appearing in the Haymarket, he used occasionally to join a little group of friends, including Justin McCarthy—he was young then and asked no more than the privilege of holding my carriage door open—who came to bear me company while I ate my 5 o'clock dinner before appearing on the stage."

Brought Her Books

"I do not suppose I met Mr. Gladstone more than half a dozen times in my life, but the memory of those occasions is still with me. He seemed to appreciate all the difficulties of life that lay ahead of me in my theatrical career, and always left me with a feeling that he was essentially a good man."

"Sometimes he would read to me favorite passages of Shakespeare. On other occasions he would bring me books. In fact, I remember that once he brought me a book of Shakespeare."

All Face Year to Life Terms in Penitentiary

Nine young street corner hoodlums, who killed Stanley Ciesla, 1955 West 19th street, last Halloween during a robbery, were found guilty of manslaughter by a jury last night in Judge John J. Sullivan's court. They face penitentiary sentences of from one year to life. The verdict was reached in less than two hours.

The jurors refused to comment on the finding of manslaughter, the minimum crime under the indictment, was the result of a compromise between one group of jurors, which was in favor of murder verdicts for the ringleaders, and another group which wanted to liberate several of the more youthful defendants.

The Nine Found Guilty

Those convicted are: JOSEPH STANLEY, 17, of 2012 West 18th street. HENRY McGREEN, 23, who gave the address of 309 South Loomis street. VINCENT WELLES, 19, who has no permanent home. VINCENT MADREY, 16, of 2130 West 18th street. ANDREW KOSOWSKI, 18, 1622 West 18th street. EDWARD GLASSMAN, 17, 1500 West 14th place. FELIX SEBASTIAN, 18, 2158 West 21st place. JOHN JANOWICZ, 19, 1622 West 14th street. MATTHEW BUZYCKI, 18, 2300 West Roosevelt road.

A squad of policemen from the Chicago avenue station was in court when the verdicts were read to prevent any demonstration. Friends of the defendants crowded the courtroom and it was feared that they might cause trouble, but the presence of the policemen kept them quiet.

Story of the Slaying

Ciesla, father of two children, had been at the home of a friend playing cards, testimony at the trial showed. He was on his way to his own residence with Martin Masur and Cashier Secord of 2117 West 14th street, when the boys, who were loitering at 17th and Robey streets, started after him. At an alley entrance the boys attacked Ciesla. He resisted them and received injuries which later caused his death, according to the evidence.

Prosecutors Praise Verdict

"This verdict should be a lesson to the youth who prefers to loaf on the street corner rather than earn an honest living," said Prosecutors Hogan and Gelman in a joint statement last night. "The verdict is satisfactory to the state, and the jury is to be congratulated."

Traffic Policeman Dies From Automobile Injuries

Policeman David J. Cairns, 3142 Dorchester avenue, who was struck by an automobile last night while directing traffic at 79th street and Stony Island avenue, died early this morning.

Petting the Dragon

San Diego Cal., Feb. 3.—(AP)—Carrying 1,300 officers and men of the Fourth regiment of United States marines, the naval transport Chaumont sailed from here at 1 o'clock this afternoon. The exact destination of the transport was not announced, but it is believed to be Guam. The vessel will go to its destination by way of Honolulu. Loading of the transport was completed at noon, four hours earlier than the estimated time necessary.

U.S. Marines to Shanghai

A detachment of fifteen marine officers and 251 marines will be dispatched to Shanghai as soon as the detachment of 150 marines now en route from Guam to Cavite, P. I., arrives. Secretary of the Navy Wilbur was advised by Admiral C. S. Williams, commander in chief of the Asiatic fleet, that the detachment will be placed under the command of Rear Admiral J. R. Y. Blakely.

No Reply from China

The state department reported that it is still without an official response to its peace overtures from the resigning military leaders in China. No indications have reached here, it was said, as to whether the Chinese warring factions will be able to get together to meet with the United States in an effort to eliminate certain features of the present treaties.

The department reported that most of the Americans have been advised to leave the interior for centrally located or coast ports. Those reported in dispatches from Admiral Williams as not having been heard from are located at such remote points that consuls have not been able to reach them.

BIG BATTLE IMPENDS

BY JOHN POWELL.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
[Copyright: 1927: By The Chicago Tribune.]

SHANGHAI, China, Feb. 3.—[Midnight.]—American refugees arriving here today from Chekiang province say the position of Marshal Chiang Kai-shek, defender of the Shanghai area against the Cantonese, is highly precarious. They say his troops have been pushed back within forty miles of Hangchow and that early evacuation of Chekiang province is likely. A train bearing 500 wounded soldiers arrived at Hangchow from the battle front for treatment today.

Marshal Sun, who is rushing reinforcements to Hangchow, is said to have nearly 700,000 troops massed in the Hangchow district opposing the southern army of 40,000, which vancing north from Fukien and east from Kiangsi. A big battle is expected soon.

Earlier reports that Great Britain was forced to change the plans for its troop movement to China, owing to the united opposition of all the factions of the Chinese, were definitely confirmed tonight when it became known that the Royal Suffolk battalion from Kiangsi was diverted to Hongkong, where the troops are disembarking from the transport and entering the Hongkong barracks.

Although local British officials, as well as the British press, hotly deny that the plans have been changed, the fact is definitely established that Great Britain is not prepared to face the united opposition by the Chinese to the quartering of 16,000 troops in the Shanghai district.

Marshal Sun Protests.

In addition to the office protests of the Peking and Canton governments, it became known today that Marshal Sun Chuan-fang, military commander of the lower Yangtze area, also protested to the Peking foreign office against the concentration of British troops in Shanghai, declaring "The British action is a serious violation of the friendly relations between the British and the Chinese and constitutes a grave infringement of Chinese sovereignty."

Further protests also were made to the Peking foreign office by Chinese chambers of commerce at Shanghai, Hangchow, and elsewhere in the Yangtze valley.

Although the Chinese reaction regarding the changed British plans is not known, owing to the suspension of the newspapers due to the Chinese New Year holidays, it is believed it will strengthen the Chinese position respecting the demand for equal treaty rights and possibly result in a complete breakdown of the old treaty position and the negotiation of equal treaties all around China dealing with each power individually.

The Japanese are paving the way through the negotiations now proceeding at Peking for a reciprocal commercial treaty.

Midwest Flock Arrive.

Nearly 100 American missionaries arrived at Shanghai today from the province of Chekiang in accordance with similar instructions to the effect that a woman member of the Southern Presbyterian Mission hospital staff at Kashieng, Chekiang province. Among those arriving today were Mrs. George Hudson of Madison, Wis.; Mrs. V. T. McGinnis, formerly Miss Thompson of Minnesota; Mrs. Wilbur Shires, formerly by Grace Nicholson of Denver; Mrs. Gertrude McCullough of Jackson, Mich.; Mrs. J. H. Arthur of Iowa, and Miss Florence Webster. Considerable concern is felt about the Chinese attitude toward the missionaries, who are both Nash and Blanche Edgar, who are still in Chekiang and have not been heard from her several days.

May Escape by Rail.

The total missionary population of Chekiang province is approximately 500, but little anxiety is felt owing to the comparatively easy evacuation via the railroad connecting Hangchow and Shanghai. The only trouble would come if the railroad was cut off by actual fighting. The missionaries along the coast south of Shanghai are being evacuated by ship. The chief mission boards represented in Chekiang province are the Northern and Southern Presbyterian and Northern and Southern Baptists.

Another shipload of missionaries from the upper Yangtze will arrive tomorrow. The French Catholic missionaries in Chekiang province are refusing to leave.

Shanghai's war complications were aggravated by earthquake shocks this morning which caused a severe shaking of buildings, but did little material damage. The Chinese populace attributed each shock to the displeasure of the heavenly dragon over the political situation.

Reuter's British service reports from New York tonight that the United States is recruiting troops for the United States regiment stationed at Tientsin are causing apprehension, since the reports are contrary to Secretary of State Kellogg's declaration that America is not sending troops to China.

May Sidetrack Troops.

LONDON, Feb. 3.—(U.N.)—Great Britain is said to be ready to accede to the demand of the southern Chinese (Cantonese) government that 20,000 British troops now on the seas en route to China, or preparing to sail, be kept off Chinese soil. Agreement is conditional, however, on certain guarantees by the southern Nationalists.

A cabinet committee headed by Prime Minister Baldwin and Foreign Minister Chamberlain is drafting new instructions to Charles d'Amboise Owen O'Malley at Hankow. In effect they are expected to assure Eugene Chen, Cantonese foreign minister, that a word from him guaranteeing the lives of foreigners in Shanghai and other south Chinese ports will cause the British troops to be ordered to Hongkong, which is British territory, 853 miles south of Shanghai.

The new proposals which are expected to be embodied in the instructions to Mr. O'Malley, instructions are

Portugal Army Garrison Revolts; Rush Loyal Troops

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

(Copyright 1927: By The Chicago Tribune.)

LISBON, Portugal, Feb. 3.—A military insurrection started at Oporto this morning. According to a statement by the minister of war, only part of the military garrison revolted. The other section declined to join and are trying to suppress the insurgents.

A government council was immediately called in Lisbon, which issued urgent military orders to suppress the revolution, while necessary precautions were taken to protect the postal and telegraphic services. Military guards are being requisitioned.

Troops Rushed to Scene.

The minister of war personally has taken charge of the proceedings, hastily journeying to Aveiro, where large forces of loyal troops were concentrated. These now are proceeding to Oporto, where they will join the loyal section of the garrison and artillery, infantry and cavalry sections encamped on the opposite side of the river from Oporto.

Jaime Moreas, in behalf of the "committee of the movement" at Oporto, tonight sent an ultimatum to the government demanding the resignation of the cabinet and a return to constitutional methods in reply to the government's action in adopting military measures to put down the insurrection.

British troops were sent because danger to British lives seemed imminent, the proposals will explain. Chen will be asked to state whether or not he is in a position to guarantee against repetition of outbreaks like that at Hankow and if he can, British defense plans will be halted.

Demands of British residents of Shanghai that they be protected would be met by stationing the entire detachment at Hongkong, which is within 48 hours' steaming distance of Shanghai.

Laborites today co-operated with government members in formulating the new instructions. A deputation, including former Labor Premier Ramsay MacDonald, J. H. Thomas, and Arthur Henderson, discussed the Chinese situation with Mr. Baldwin and Sir Austen Chamberlain while the new proposals were being drafted.

Britain's Case to Chen. Agitators in China, and not troops, constitute the chief danger of causing mob violence, the note will point out. Thus, Chen will be reminded, his promise not to take the foreign settlements in Shanghai and elsewhere by force does not constitute a guarantee to British residents. Second, it will be recalled that the British had an opportunity to test Chen's ability to control the mobs at Hankow, and there only luck—a timely shower—prevented a general anti-foreign outbreak.

Fear Clash at Hankow. (Chicago Tribune Press Service.) SHANGHAI, China, Feb. 3.—Although, owing to rigid censorship at Hankow, full details are not available, The Tribune is reliably informed that a very delicate situation exists over the deadlock caused by the radicals' rejection of the British-nationalist agreement regarding the British concessions in China.

Apprehension is felt that serious disorders may occur on Monday, when business will be resumed after the new year holidays.

The consults of the treaty powers are expediting the evacuation of all nationals, owing to the danger of a break between the British and the Cantonese nationalists, which many British anticipate. All members of the Hankow British municipal council are being mustered in Shanghai. They express strong opposition to any Sino-British control of the British concessions.

The Americans are doing their utmost to get their nationals beyond Hankow aboard steamers.

Rest of Country Tranquil.

Other parts of the country apart from Oporto are tranquil.

Government artillery has taken up a position at Leixoes, ready to bombard the insurgents if necessary. Mixed detachments from the garrisons at Nacastelo, Valencia and Braga, under command of Col. Amara, also are marching to Oporto to assist in quelling the revolt.

Revolts Prepared for Months. GENEVA, Feb. 3.—(AP)—The revolution reported in Portugal has been actively prepared for several months. Opposition to the military dictatorship of Gen. Carmona, who now is president, has been growing steadily, fanned by the dissolution of parliament, the restraint put on the press, and the imprisonment or exile of the political adversaries of the Carmona cabinet, and has gradually permeated the army.

Hostility reached its climax when the government sought to negotiate in Oporto, which was the scene of the political and military operations against the granting of such a loan, which would tie up public revenues as a guarantee, on the ground that the expenditure of the loan would be absolutely uncontrolled by the constitutional organs of the country.

Mr. Ford also has stock in the Ford Motor Company of Canada and the Ford Motor Company of Great Britain, a railroad, steamboats, iron, and coal mines, subsidiary factories for manufacture of glass and woodwork, timber forests, and various other properties that would bring the cash he could command in a general liquidation, in the opinion of those acquainted with his business, to above $1,500,000,000.

Such a sum invested at five per cent would bring him annual interest of $75,000,000.

No estimate of Mr. Ford's wealth was attempted today at hearings before the board of tax appeals, where former minority stockholders of his company, among them being Senator Cushman (Rep., Mich.), are contesting a $30,821,000 tax claim by the government. Emphasis was placed, however, on the assertion that there is a definite market value for genius.

Adds More for Ford's Genes. Testifying as an expert witness in the effort of counsel for the former stockholders to establish a valuation of the Ford company as of March 1, 1919, Paul M. Clay, vice president of the Moody Investment service, said he would give distinct preference to securities of "a one man company" provided that man was of the right type.

"Have you formed an opinion as to the value of the Ford Motor company as of March 1, 1919?" Mr. Clay was asked.

Mr. Clay answered by stating that he considered the value of the Ford stock at that time was $10,300 a share. This was a point for the appellants, because the 1919 value of the stock is the crux of the tax dispute, and the tax appeal. Back in 1919 when the minority stockholders left the

Washington, D. C., Feb. 3.—(Special.)—On the basis of the $1,000,000,000 offer which Henry Ford scorned for his motor car company, his vast fortune, including that of his son, Edsel, is estimated by former associates as approaching $2,000,000,000 and comprising by far the largest store of wealth dominated by any one man.

In addition to the billion he could have collected for his company within the last thirty days, which establishes its market value at that time, the Ford mobile manufacturer is said to have at the present time about $300,000,000 in cash deposits and surplus. It also is stated that if he chose to market his own stock he could obtain for it about as much as the bankers, who naturally would dispose of it at a profit.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 3.—(Special.)—On the basis of the $1,000,000,000 offer which Henry Ford scorned for his motor car company, his vast fortune, including that of his son, Edsel, is estimated by former associates as approaching $2,000,000,000 and comprising by far the largest store of wealth dominated by any one man.

In addition to the billion he could have collected for his company within the last thirty days, which establishes its market value at that time, the Ford mobile manufacturer is said to have at the present time about $300,000,000 in cash deposits and surplus. It also is stated that if he chose to market his own stock he could obtain for it about as much as the bankers, who naturally would dispose of it at a profit.

Has Many Irons in Fire. Mr. Ford also has stock in the Ford Motor Company of Canada and the Ford Motor Company of Great Britain, a railroad, steamboats, iron, and coal mines, subsidiary factories for manufacture of glass and woodwork, timber forests, and various other properties that would bring the cash he could command in a general liquidation, in the opinion of those acquainted with his business, to above $1,500,000,000.

Such a sum invested at five per cent would bring him annual interest of $75,000,000.

No estimate of Mr. Ford's wealth was attempted today at hearings before the board of tax appeals, where former minority stockholders of his company, among them being Senator Cushman (Rep., Mich.), are contesting a $30,821,000 tax claim by the government. Emphasis was placed, however, on the assertion that there is a definite market value for genius.

Adds More for Ford's Genes. Testifying as an expert witness in the effort of counsel for the former stockholders to establish a valuation of the Ford company as of March 1, 1919, Paul M. Clay, vice president of the Moody Investment service, said he would give distinct preference to securities of "a one man company" provided that man was of the right type.

MARY-HAUGEN BILL'S CHANCES GROW BRIGHTER

Farm Bloc Chiefs Claim
Majority in Senate.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
Washington, D. C., Feb. 3.—(Special.)—Passage of the McNary-Haugen bill to stabilize the prices of farm products on a higher level in the domestic market now appears a strong possibility.

In the house the passage of the McNary bill by a comfortable margin seems to be a certainty. In the senate, which took up the McNary bill today and made it the unfinished business, the vote will be close, the farm bloc leaders counting a majority of from 7 to 9 votes in favor of the measure.

Speculation on Coolidge Action.

Speculation is already rife on what President Coolidge will do if the bill should reach him. The President has expressed the McNary-Haugen bill as a "fixing scheme and economically unsound," and it was due to his opposition that the measure was beaten in the house. The last session of congress the McNary-Haugen bill was introduced, but it never could reach him.

On the other hand, a number of administration Republicans are predicting that the President will sign the bill, pointing out that he never has actually declared himself against it.

Role of Lowden, Davies Involved.

Passage of the bill would constitute a triumph for the American Farm Bureau federation and other corn belt organizations, for former Gov. Frank I. Lowden, its chief political sponsor, and for Vice President Davies, who has given powerful aid to the McNary-Haugen farm relief plan.

A veto of the bill would make Mr. Lowden at once the outstanding opponent of Mr. Coolidge for the Republican nomination for President in 1928.

With these political considerations involved there is going to be a terrific battle over modification of the measure acceptable to the President.

Farm Bloc Strategy.

The house is scheduled to take up the McNary bill next Tuesday and dispose of it by the end of the week. The farm bloc, however, is waiting for passage of the bill by the senate first, in passage in that body not to be assured.

Senator McNary (Ind., Rep.) notified the house leaders today that the votes are in sight in the senate and that he would proceed to press the bill to passage.

Mr. McNary endeavored at first to obtain a unanimous consent agreement for a vote on both the farm relief bill and the McNary-Haugen bill, but the McNary-Haugen bill was defeated.

Senator Arthur (Dem., Ark.) assumed a general filibustering attitude, asserting that he intended to resort to every possible artifice to prevent consideration of the McNary-Haugen bill, which the senate strongly opposes.

Take Steps to Inevitable Closure.

Mr. McNary then moved that the farm relief bill be made the unfinished business and this motion was adopted. Farm bloc leaders immediately took steps to invoke closure, in order to force a vote on the McNary bill next week. By virtue of the coalition of the supporters of the farm relief bill and the McNary-Haugen bill, the necessary two-thirds vote to apply

ACTION IS DEFERRED ON SMITH'S APPEAL FOR SEAT IN SENATE

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Washington, D. C., Feb. 3.—(Special.)—Action in the contest involving the seat of Frank L. Smith, senator-designate from Illinois, was deferred by the senate committee on privileges and elections today until next Wednesday.

The postponement was at the request of counsel for Mr. Smith in order that his wishes might be ascertained as to whether to present evidence or to rest the case on the constitutional arguments already advanced.

C. J. Doyle, one of the Smith attorneys, and Attorney General Oscar C. Carroll of Illinois left this afternoon for Chicago to consult with Mr. Smith. They will return on Tuesday with instructions from him as to the future course of procedure.

Mr. Doyle and Mr. Carroll will take up with Mr. Smith the question as to whether he is content to allow the case to stand as at present or whether evidence bearing on the campaign contributions by public utility magnates as developed by the Reed committee should be offered before a final report is submitted. Thus far the Smith attorneys have only presented arguments to prove that the senate has no right to deny their client a seat under the provisions of the constitution.

closure is assured for both measures.

If the senate should pass the McNary bill first the house will accept the McNary bill and send it to the President forthwith.

The increased support accruing to the McNary-Haugen bill is due partly to the spread of the movement among the farmers outside the corn belt and partly to the conversion of many cotton and tobacco growers. Tobacco is to be added to the basic commodities in the surplus control scheme, and the tobacco growing states will swing their support in both houses.

35 Families Routed by Fire in South Side Flat Building

Thirty-five families living in an apartment building at 688 East 37th street, were driven to the street early last evening by a fire that caused damage estimated at $15,000. The flames started in the rear and spread rapidly, cutting off the rear exits. A full alarm was sounded, firemen fearing a spread to other buildings nearby.

WOMAN ROBBED OF $5,000 GEMS IN APARTMENT

Two armed bandits yesterday afternoon forced their way into the apartment of Mrs. Rebecca Katz, wife of Samuel Katz, a commission merchant living at 1234 Independence boulevard, locked Mrs. Katz and her colored maid, Adele Thomas, in a linen closet at the points of their revolvers, ransacked the place, and escaped with jewelry valued at more than $5,000 and a small sum of money.

Shortly before the robbers appeared a strange man had telephoned the apartment, declaring it to be the "wrong number" when Mrs. Katz answered. Police believe the caller to have been one of the robbers seeking to learn if the women were alone in the apartment.

An hour after the robbery Mr. Katz arrived at home, to find his wife in a state of collapse. He summoned the police.

INDUSTRIAL CLUB GIVES $100,000 TO FIGHT CRIME

As a step toward ridding the city of gangsters, the Industrial Club of Chicago has appropriated $100,000 to a campaign for this purpose, Rush C. Butler, president of the Illinois Association for Criminal Justice, announced last night.

"Sensationalism and sentiment are to play no part in our campaign," said Butler. "We're going to dig down to the roots of crime coldly, calmly, and scientifically."

The Illinois Association for Criminal Justice, in its drive against gangsters, will have the cooperation of the Chicago Association of Commerce, the Chicago crime commission, and the Illinois Federation of Labor. John H. Walker, the president of the state labor federation, is to occupy one of the executive positions in the campaign.

District Attorney Asa Keyes said he would consider the matter and probably would confer with Chaplin's attorneys before making his decision. Attorneys of the district attorney's office said the request probably will be refused.

8,000 SHOWN HOW BOY SCOUTS WIN MERIT BADGES

While about 8,000 relatives and friends followed the Boy Scout trail past 73 fascinating exhibits at the 131st Infantry armory last evening, youthful experts along most lines imaginable—bookkeeping, typesetting, trail blazing, horseshoeing, dairying, and scores of others—told how they worked to win the coveted merit badge, one of the highest awards in scouting.

This first annual merit badge exposition of the Boy Scouts, sponsored by the All-Chicago Kiwanis clubs, in connection with the present $200,000 scout campaign, demonstrates the vocational guidance features of the Chicago council, where scouts between the ages of 12 and 18 are given a peep into the various vocations of modern life to see what they'd like best to take up for their life work.

The exhibit will close Saturday evening.

LONDON ESTATE SUIT INVOLVES W. M. HOYT HEIRS

A petition requesting an accounting of the estate of Miss Helen Josephine Landon, daughter of Nelson Landon, Chicago pioneer, was filed in Circuit court at Waukegan on last Saturday by Miss Josephine E. Kellogg and Mrs. Alken of Winthrop Harbor, Ill., who assert they are the principal heirs of the Landon estate.

Defendants in the action are the trustees of the W. M. Hoyt estate and Mrs. T. Philip Swift, Mrs. Dexter Cummings, and Mrs. A. Landon Hoyt, all of Lake Forest. The three women are granddaughters of W. M. Hoyt and heirs of that estate. The action was filed by attorneys Leslie A. Needham of Winnetka and Elam L. Clarke of Waukegan. W. M. Hoyt in 1860 married Emilie J. Landon, a daughter of Nelson Landon.

Miss Landon lived at the home of W. M. Hoyt in Chicago for fifty years, the petition states, and that Miss Landon was one of the three heirs to the estate of Nelson Landon. Miss Landon died in 1894, leaving everything in the hands of W. M. Hoyt. Miss Kellogg declares, asserting that later she was informed that all Miss Landon left was some jewelry and 216 shares of Western Union stock, worth 50 cents a share. But for the last fifteen years, she states, the Hoyt estate has placed millions of dollars in property in a trust fund from which the Hoyt heirs have benefited.

RIGO, VIOLINIST PRINCECHARMING, DIES IN NEW YORK

DeChimay Elopement Gave Him World Fame.

New York, Feb. 3.—(AP)—Janice Rigo, known as the "gypsy violinist" and as "Count Rigo," died today from a complication of diseases. He had been seriously ill since Jan. 13 when he was taken to the hospital.

Rigo, who was known to thousands in America, who had heard him on the vaudeville stage, combined his artist's career with a free acceptance of life which carried him in and out of courts—royal and legal—and into the newspaper headlines many times.

Born in the mountains of Hungary sixty years ago, he early attracted attention with his violin and before many years he had played before most of the crowned heads of Europe. He was married seven times, his gypsy marriage with the Princess De Chimay early in the century attracting the most attention.

Eloped with Princess.

The Princess De Chimay, wife of a Belgian prince, eloped with Rigo and lived with him in gypsy camps in central Europe. The princess was formerly Clara Ward, who inherited $50,000,000 from her father in Detroit. At one time, it was said, she had been living on East 84th street, near the river, with his wife, winner of beauty awards in Rome, Milan, Paris, and Philadelphia, and seven years ago declared by the Photographic Arts Society of America to be the most beautiful woman in the United States.

Mme. Rigo had opened a small summer tearoom, where Rigo played occasionally, but, she said recently, New York considered her "too far out," and few persons dropped in to rest or listen.

Rigo's illness was diagnosed as bronchial asthma and pneumonia.

CAPITAL SOCIETY GASPS AT A NEW FAMILY IMPASSE

Washington, D. C., Feb. 3.—(Special.)—The latest sensation in Washington society is the separation of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Alastair Wynn Wynne after three months of married life. Mrs. Wynne has taken up her residence with her mother, Mrs. Henry M. Hoyt, 1701 Rhode Island avenue, leaving her British husband in the apartment they took upon coming to Washington from England.

Mrs. Wynne, who was Nancy Hoyt, daughter of a solicitor general under the Taft administration, gave society its first thrill when as a debutante in 1923 she broke her engagement to Lieut. Wiseman-Clarke of the British navy the day before they were to have been married.

Miss Hoyt then won recognition as a writer. Mr. Wynne had a literary bent and it was said that he and his wife were collaborating on a novel.

Mrs. Wynne's sister, Mrs. William Rose Benet, who was Elinor Hoyt, married Philip Hichborn, son of Rear Admiral Hichborn, in 1906. Four years later she eloped to Paris with a poet, Hichborn later committed suicide. Mrs. Wiley, who became a poet of note, eventually was married to William Rose Benet.

ROBBERS INVADE REESE HOSPITAL; FLEE WITH $6,000

Snatch Pay Roll from Three Guards.

Three robbers yesterday invaded the Sarah Morris Children's hospital, adjacent to the Michael Reese hospital, held up three armed guards and escaped with pay roll funds totaling more than $6,000.

The three guards, employees of the Brinks Express company, had brought the weekly pay roll money, amounting to about $12,000, to the hospital in an armored car and from the car into the offices of the Michael Reese hospital. After the payoff of nurses and other employees had been completed there the guards transferred the remainder of the money through an underground tunnel to the Sarah Morris Children's hospital.

Only a few of the pay envelopes had been handed out to attaches there when the bandits appeared.

Guards Disarmed; One Beaten.

J. Gartin, 2812 Washington boulevard, on guard at the door, was the first to observe the strangers as they entered. When the foremost robber brandished a revolver Gartin wheeled and attempted to draw his gun. He was felled to the floor by a blow from the nearest bandit. The other two guards, Fred Rogers of 2811 Burley avenue and George Vivian of 3548 West 61st street, were then disarmed.

Hastily scooping up all the money in sight, the robbers fled through the underground passageway, through the lobby of the Michael Reese hospital, and to their automobile waiting in the street. A passerby later told police that the last three figures of the ill-earned number of the car were 351.

Patients Not Disturbed.

Patients in neither of the hospitals were disturbed by the holdup or knew it was taking place, although excitement reigned among employees of the Morris hospital who were gathered to receive their pay.

Fairly accurate descriptions of the robbers were furnished police by three young women stenographers. The girls, Leah Sachs, Sigrid Folstad, and Blanche Weiner, were in the Reese hospital offices as the three men fled through the lobby on their way to the automobile.

Miss Elizabeth Sloan, telephone operator of the Morris hospital, saw the bandits run and called the police. Miss Jeanette DeWint of 6344 Champlain avenue also gave police a description of the robbers.

GLADSTONE CRITIC DESERVES WHIP, SAYS JERSEY LILY

he gave me the Memoirs of Sister somebody or other, and at the time I could not help feeling that he wanted me to absorb all the lessons of that sister's life. He used to say he had the simple religious faith of a child, and, indeed, he made you feel that he broadcast goodness.

"Among the useful advice he gave me was never to rush into print to explain or defend myself. I am not now disregarding that advice, but I do feel strongly that if, in the divorce court under the new laws of England, silence has to be observed for all gave the findings of the court, some protection should be given to the living and the dead in libel actions arising out of the dead in libel actions which has apparently become both fashionable and profitable."

It was with real feeling that Lady De Bathe spoke of Mr. Gladstone. Dressed as she was, in a short cut, modern striped kaasha coat and skirt, it seemed impossible that she should ever have known him at all.

She showed various engravings of her grandfather, the last portrait printed by Sir Thomas Lawrence, who, like most of her family, the Le Bretons, came from the island of Jersey, which saves her the name of the "Jersey Lily."

"In those days I was a slim, straight young girl. I had the boyish figure of today," she concluded. She still had it and despite the law court revelations as to her age, she is young enough to declare that women, no matter what figure or fashion may be the vogue, are always charming.

JURY CLEARS GLADSTONE

BY JOHN STEELE.
(Chicago Tribune from Service.)
(Copyright: 1927. By The Chicago Tribune.)

LONDON, Feb. 3.—Twelve good men and true decided tonight that when Viscount Herbert Gladstone characterized the muckraking writer, Capt. Peter Wright, a "liar, a coward, and a foul fellow" in his letter to the Bath club he was making a statement which was in substance true. And so the name of Great Britain's grand old man, the one time Liberal prime minister, William Ewart Gladstone, goes back into history unscathed by the captain's charges that he was a hypocrite in sex matters.

Thus ended Capt. Wright's libel suit against Viscount Gladstone, 73 year old son of the former prime minister, for the viscount's words in his letter to the secretary of the club, which resulted in Capt. Wright's expulsion. The writer in his book, "Portraits and Criticisms," said the great Gladstone in private had made it a practice to "pursue every sort of woman."

The jury, after considering the evidence for two hours, returned to the court, and the judge said to the foreman, "I understand you are agreed that the gist of the defendant's letter of July 22 was true."

The foreman answered, "That is so."

The judge then informed the jury that it need not trouble about the other question. "That is the verdict for the defendant," he said, thereby conceding the verdict to Viscount Gladstone.

The announcement caused a slight demonstration in the court, which was crowded with social and political leaders, but the judge warned the demonstrators that they would be held for contempt of court if it was repeated.

Then the foreman rose and said: "We, the jury, are of the unanimous opinion that the evidence placed before us completely vindicates the high moral character of the late William Ewart Gladstone."

Justice Aveyer then entered judgment, with costs, for Lord Gladstone, following which Lord Gladstone's counsel, N. Birkett, expressed the deep appreciation of Viscount Gladstone to the members of the jury.

Lord and Lady Gladstone received many warm congratulations from their friends in court.

Old Jockey Takes Stand

Capt. Wright had one small half triumph in the King's Bench court today. That was when Charles Thompson, the old steeplechase jockey, was called as a witness.

Thompson, Capt. Wright testified, had told him that a woman with whom he (Thompson) was walking told him she had been molested by Mr. Gladstone. Thompson said that Capt.

Wright came to him when he was being expelled from the Bath club and asked him if the story was true. The jockey said that this was the only time he had ever seen Capt. Wright.

He said he had told the captain that he was once walking with a woman in Jermyn street and left her for a few minutes. When he returned, she pointed out an aged man across the street, whom he recognized as Mr. Gladstone. The woman said the man had tried to speak to her. Capt. Wright asked Thompson to write a letter to this effect to the Bath club.

"Refused to Lie Dead."

"I refused to do so because it would be libelling a dead man, and anyone the woman was a bad character and I did not believe her," Thompson concluded.

T. P. O'Connor, Irish statesman, known as the "father of the house of commons," who Capt. Wright said, used the phrase about Mr. Gladstone being "governed by his seraglio," attributing it to Lord Milner in his obituary of that statesman, said it never occurred to him that Lord Milner meant anything but Mr. Gladstone's wife and daughters. He said Lord Milner was referring principally to Mrs. Gladstone's great solicitude for her husband, and told how she used to wait for the prime minister in the gallery of the house of commons.

"I am sure that if Lord Milner had any foul thought about Mr. Gladstone he was too great a gentleman to express it," Mr. O'Connor said.

He also said he was sure Mr. Gladstone had no knowledge of the intricate details of the case, but that the Irish Liberal leader, and Killy O'Shea, and that, moreover, most of the Irish members of parliament knew nothing about it until the scandal broke. It had been charged Gladstone had brought about the illicit relationship between Parnell and Mrs. O'Shea.

Lady Gwendolyn Cecil, daughter of the biographer, Lord Salisbury, Mr. Gladstone's great political opponent, testified that her father had the highest respect for the statesman's private character. Lady Gwendolyn knew the beautiful Mrs. Olga Novikoff and said that while it was generally believed that she was a Russian political agent, there never had been a breath of scandal against her chastity. Capt. Wright had charged that Mrs. Novikoff had become Gladstone's mistress and had influenced his policy toward Russia.

Perhaps the hardest blow for Capt. Wright came from his publisher, Sir Evelyn Nash, who testified that the offending passage about Gladstone was not in the original manuscript, nor the typescript, but was inserted by Capt. Wright in the galley proof. Sir Evelyn said that if he had seen the passage, he would have insisted on its deletion, as he did other passages he considered libelous or in bad taste. He said, however, that he did not accuse the captain of smuggling the clause into the book.

The judge, opening the stunning up of the case, put two questions to the jury: First, whether the alleged libel in substance was true (this refers to Lord Gladstone's statement that Capt. Wright was a "liar, a coward, and a foul fellow"), and, second, if true whether the defendant was actuated by malignancy in writing it. The judge said that it had been suggested that Lord Gladstone could have sued on the ground of a libel against his father, but that the law was vague.

Describing the offending passage the judge asked: "Can you have any doubt that the passage was introduced at the last moment in order to pander to the vicious taste of that section of the public which loves only scandal, particularly if it is scandal connected with the private life of a public man?"

New method revives dormant hair roots

HERE is new hair under written guarantee: falling hair completely stopped under guarantee. You are asked to take nobody's promise. You pay nothing if the Van Ess method fails. It is folly not to try it. It does what no other method does or has ever done: Massages powerful root-rejuvenating and germ-combating elements directly into the follicles (roots) of the hair. It is protected under U.S. patent. It cultivates a totally new growth of hair—lustrous, wonderful hair with the sheen of youth actually grown where now thinning—or you pay nothing. You just rub it on your head, morning or evening, for surely a miracle.

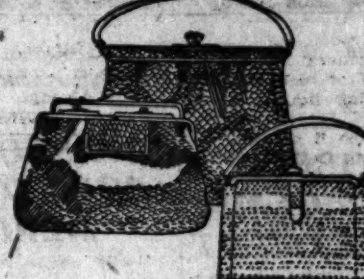

In last two years, it has proved 70% effective, according to record, in some 200,000 cases of falling hair, semi-baldness and even total baldness. That means success followed in the great majority of cases. Consider what this means. Why then go on feeling regret with old-time tactics? This method "revives" the hair roots people used to have been told were irretrievable. Go to any drug store. Get the Van Ess Liquid Scalp Massage. Written guarantee to grow new hair in 30 days, to stop falling hair completely, supplied by the dealer with full treatment. Costs the same as ordinary hair remedies.

TWO KILLED AS AUTO LEAPS OFF ROAD; TOLL IS 69

Three men were killed yesterday and several others were near death as the result of automobile accidents. Since Jan. 1 sixty-nine persons have been fatally injured by automobiles in Cook county.

When a speeding automobile left the road at 5th avenue, La Grange Park, near 29th street, and crashed through a mail box and sign boards, two men were killed, one was said to be dying, and three others were hurt. Police started an investigation of reports that the men had been drinking and the car traveling fifty miles an hour. The dead were: Charles Marchik, 35 years old, 4032 Joliet avenue, Lyons, Ill., and John Marchik, 19 years old, same address, a cousin. The man believed to be dying is Peter Rovish, 35 years old, 8012 Custer avenue, Lyons.

Ill., who was taken to the Hinsdale sanitarium.

Knocked Off Wagon; Killed.

Injuries received when his junk wagon was struck by an automobile at Elston avenue and Warsaw street resulted in the death of William Nant, 47 years old, 3827 Elston avenue, Louis Lane, 5951 Nina avenue, driver of the automobile, was held by police.

The shock of a collision with an automobile threw a motor coach driven by John P. Clark, 59 years old, 2233 Seminary avenue, across Lake View avenue at Arlington street and into a car parked at the curb. Clark was thrown from the bus into the wreckage of the parked car and received internal injuries. Six women passengers were in the bus at the time but none was seriously injured.

Policeman Seriously Injured.

While directing traffic at 7th street and Stony Island avenue, Policeman David J. Cairns, 45 years old, 5142 Dorchester avenue, was struck by an automobile which did not stop. Another motorist gave pursuit and captured the automobile driver two blocks away. He gave the name of Charles Smith, 6228 Princeton avenue.

An unidentified Mexican, about 45 years old, was possibly fatally injured when he was struck by an automobile at Michigan boulevard and Roosevelt road. He was taken to St. Luke's hospital, suffering from a fractured skull.

follow the practice of conducting a campaign to cost $250,000.

State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe made retort last night to the onslaughts of Mr. Litsinger on the Crowe-Thompson combination.

"Litsinger says I was repudiated by the people in the defeat of Savage for county judge last November by 75,000, all of Litsinger's friends and Lundin's friends, also, contributing to the Democratic plurality," State's Attorney Crowe replied.

"Does Litsinger think he got a vote of confidence from the Republicans four years ago when he was beaten in the Republican primary for mayor by Arthur Lueder by 55,000? That's the last vote of confidence Litsinger got.

The last time I ran I was reflected by over 200,000."

Judah Adds to Charges.

Col. Judah in charging a colonization plan in the colored wards in behalf of the Thompson-Crowe camp, said:

"There are now registered on the poll books of the 2d, 3d, and 4th wards a total of 94,929 voters, of whom 25,000 were added last Tuesday. Thousands of repeaters were rushed from one precinct to another by the automobile load on Tuesday. It is apparent that from one-third to one-half of the 25,000 registered Tuesday are false and fictitious.

"In the north side wards, 42d to 50th inclusive—all of them Republican strongholds—23,000 names additional to those appearing on the poll books for the important election last fall were registered on Tuesday. That was a nominal registration averaging 2,500 to the ward.

"If the sagacious frauds permitted in the 2d, 3d, and 4th wards are allowed to stand the effect of it will be that 24,000 votes honestly registered in ten north side wards will be completely overbalanced by the brazen conspiracy perpetrated in the 2d, 3d, and 4th wards.

Pies Helps Litsinger.

A citizens' campaign committee headed by Charles Pies, a former chairman of the United States shipping board, and George Woodruff, chairman of the board of directors of the National Bank of the Republic, to further Litsinger's candidacy was announced last night.

Business men, bankers, lawyers, and professional men and women active in clubs and Republican organizations compose the Pies committee. Among 250 names are: Walter W. Ahleschlag, E. A. Eckhart, Howard Gillette, Leroy A. Goddard, Brig. Gen. Nathan William MacChesney, Leonard Rosenthal, John F. Jelke Jr., A. F. W. Stebel, Paul O. Steinbrecher, Jacob L. Keener, Col. JUDGES CUT 427 JOBS OFF NEW COUNTY PAY ROLL

Save About $905,240 on 1927 Expenses.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The judges of the Circuit court decided yesterday there is real basis for the charge that Cook county is wasting money on salaries.

The accusation came from J. Louis Jacobs, efficiency engineer, employed by the county board. The judges said in effect that charge is true. Their opinion was expressed in performing their constitutional duty of deciding how many persons shall be employed in the fee offices during 1927.

The heads of these fee offices—sheriff, treasurer, recorder, coroner, jury commissioners, probation officials, and clerks of each of the five courts—told the judges they needed a total of 2,114 employees.

Calls Estimates Too High.
Mr. Jacobs told the judges that number was 27 per cent too high. He asserted these offices did not need more than 1,711 employees, even upon a spoils basis. The judges allowed an aggregate of 1,747. That is a theoretical saving of 427 jobs to the taxpayers. That many more would have been put on the pay roll, more than were attached, if the petitioning of officials had their way. At an average of $1,120 a year an employee the judges cut the requested pay roll $905,240.

The city and county are growing. It usually is contended by public officials that the work of their offices is increasing yearly in about the same rate. In this particular spot a decrease in activity is sometimes shown, but taking all the public offices in the aggregate, officials claim that the work is increasing. On that theory there will be more need for employees in the fee offices this year than there was last year or in any of the four previous years.

Comparing Previous Years.
If 1,747 employees are sufficient in the fee offices in 1927, that number was more than sufficient in each of the five previous years, according to the accepted reasoning. The following tabulation shows the number of employees allowed in the fee offices

COUNTY JOB CONTRASTS AS SHOWN IN TABLE BY EFFICIENCY EXPERT

J. Louis Jacobs, efficiency expert for the county board, prepared yesterday a list giving the number of jobs in the county fee offices last year, the number asked for this year, and the number recommended allowed for this year by the judges of the Circuit court. The number of persons employed for part of a year has been computed on the basis of "aggregate years." In the following table the first column shows the offices, the second the number of jobs in 1926, the third the number of jobs asked for 1927, the fourth the number of jobs which the judges declared there should be in 1927:

for each of the last six years and the excess for each year over 1927:

Year	Employees Excess
1927	1,747
1926	1,904
1925	1,853
1924	2,094
1923	2,063
1922	1,973

Taking an average salary of $2,120 a year for each employee, the excess number in the last five years means an unnecessary expenditure of $2,013,240. The committee of the Circuit court that heard the evidence from the fee officials and from Mr. Jacobs then fixed 1,747 as the number for 1927 was composed of Judges Matchett, Wilson and Bartelme. They made the recommendation to the court which the judges approved.

In contrast with the Circuit Judges are the Superior court Judges. They are politically charged by Mr. Jacobs, with adding in blocking economy in the office of the clerk of that court. This office has not installed the photographic method of copying records. Last year it had 60 full time jobs and two for four months. For this year it asked 71 full time positions. By the photographic process, Mr. Jacobs says that 51 full time jobs would be ample with two others for four months each.

"The number of employees in this office has been increased from year to year and no improved methods have been adopted as in the case of other offices of the clerk of the court," Mr. Jacobs said formally to the Superior court judges' employment committee. "Under the improved methods in other offices it has been possible not only to keep the work up to date, but also to accomplish a reduction in the number of positions."

Declares Work Is Delayed.
Regarding the Superior court clerk's office he went on: "Under the present system, chancery record writing is always in arrears and the comparison of typed records is not being kept up to date. The change to the photographic process can be made within a few days as the photographic equipment and organization is now available for this additional work."

"It will be necessary that the judges of the Superior court enter an order similar to that of the judges of the Circuit court, so the clerk of the Superior court will proceed to use the photographic process for making permanent and other records."

Young Lord Weds Show Girl, Over Protest of Father

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
LONDON, Feb. 3.—The romance of a peer and a show girl culminated today when Lord Ashley, 20, son and heir of the earl of Shaftesbury, married Miss Sylvia Hawkes by special license, in St. Paul's church, Knightsbridge, in spite of strenuous opposition from his family. Lord Shaftesbury spent last night motoring to London from his home at Salisbury for a final unsuccessful effort to dissuade his son. Many of Miss Hawkes' friends were at the church, but no relatives of the bridegroom attended.

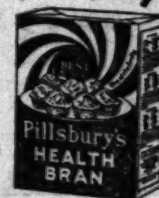

Kansas' Anti-Cigarette Law Has Been Repealed

Topeka, Kan., Feb. 2.—(U.P.)—Cigarettes can be purchased legally in Kansas now. Gov. Ben S. Paulen today signed the bill repealing the state's anti-cigarette law and sent to the legislature a message outlining his objections to certain provisions which he hoped to see corrected.

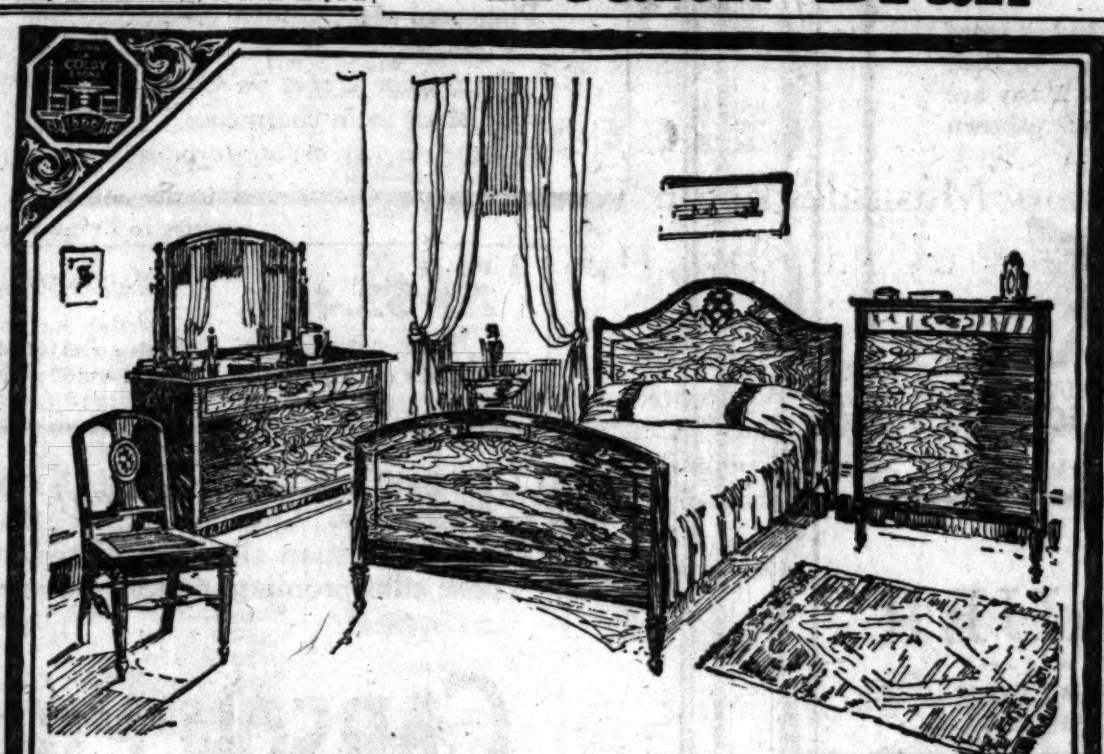

The governor said the license fee provided was unfair and unreasonable, and he saw no reason why cigarettes should not be advertised in the state and declared the penalties provided were too drastic.

CONN CHICAGO CO. EAST VAN BUREN

GIVES DEFEATED ALDERMAN RIGHT OF COURT APPEAL

Igoe Measure Passed by Illinois House.

BY JOHN HERRICK.

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 3.—[Special.]—Two bills, one of which Chicago has an especial interest, passed without opposition in the house of representatives today.

The Igoe bill, to provide a method whereby defeated Chicago aldermanic candidates may contest the election of successful rivals by appeal to the county court, was approved by a vote of 106 to 0.

Representative Elmer J. Schmackenberg of Chicago discovered a flaw in the measure in that it failed to provide for a losing candidate to seek redress in cases where no one candidate receives a majority at the first aldermanic contest. It was agreed, after argument, to amend the bill in the senate. It is an emergency measure and is being hastened through by its sponsors in the hope that it will be out of the legislature in time to apply to the Feb. 22 election.

Legislative Boundary Bridges.
A bill introduced by Rep. A. Otis Arnold of Quincy to permit cities and villages to build bridges and operate ferries across state boundary rivers was passed by a vote of 180 to 0. The bill is primarily intended to empower Quincy to build a bridge across the Mississippi.

The Klan showed its head in the assembly today in two measures sponsored by Representative Wallace A. Bandy of Marion. Both are aimed at the Roman Catholic church. One seeks an act to prohibit any prenuptial agreement to train children in the tenets of any particular faith. The other would make it a misdemeanor to question "by word, act, or picture" the sanctity of a civil marriage.

Hits Trading in Futures.
What is accepted as a renewal of former attempts to smash trade in futures on the board of trade was begun in a bill introduced by Representative John M. Jenco of Joliet, to prohibit all trading in grain futures unless the seller is the actual owner or the agent of the actual owner of the grain and the buyer has a bona fide intention to receive and pay for the grain.

Immediately before adjournment until next Tuesday a wet resolution, sponsored by the Illinois division of the Association Opposed to Prohibition, was introduced by Representative A. B. Lauer of Carle. It would memorialize to permit the manufacture, sale, and transportation of beverages containing not more than 2.75 per cent of alcohol by weight and not intoxicating in fact.

THREE BOYS HELD AS SUSPECTS IN KROLL'S MURDER

Three 17 year old boys were in police cells last night in connection with the shooting to death of a third, who, according to authorities, was their partner in a holdup. The dead boy, Julius Kroll, also 17, of 1708 Sedgwick street, was identified by a shopkeeper as one of two youths who held up and robbed him of $4 less than an hour before Kroll's body was thrown from an automobile into an alley at 4717 Forrestville avenue.

Oscar Schirmer, son of Ulric Schirmer, manager of the Ambassador club, 4545 Drexel avenue, and Norbert Loese, 1635 North Park avenue, are two boys held. F. L. Turner, 4101 Indiana avenue, the shopkeeper, readily picked Schirmer as the companion of Kroll in the robbery. Loese was arrested because it was learned he spent a good part of Wednesday evening with Schirmer. George Kelly, 17, of 2313 Cleveland avenue, was taken to the Hudson avenue police station for questioning today. He knew young Kroll.

Schirmer and Loese denied knowing anything of the murder or of the robbery preceding it.

Young Schirmer's mother, who collapsed last night at the Rogers Park hotel.

Woman and 3 Men Held

Up in Store; $500 Stolen

Three men and a woman were lined up against a wall in the Gardner Brothers Tea company, 2125 Archer avenue, late yesterday by two robbers who escaped with $500. One of the robbers fired a shot at Bert Bogan, 1704 North Maplewood avenue, an employe, because he moved.

SENATE BATTLE LINES DRAWN ON
REAPPORTIONINGMany Leading Members
Back Dailey Bill.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 3.—[Special.]—After brief meetings both houses of the legislature adjourned until next Tuesday.

SENATE.

Executive committee recommended passage of Dailey resolution for constitutional reapportionment.

Anti-Chicago downstate backed resolution to limit city's representation in senate.

Resolutions passed: For appointment of committee to confer with Illinois and Chicago Bar association on criminal code and procedure; urging congress to repeal federal inheritance tax; and urging President Coolidge to expedite Canadian-St. Lawrence waterway treaty.

HOUSE.

Bills passed: Igou bill to provide method of contest in Chicago aldermanic elections [106 to 6]; Arnold, bill to permit cities and villages to build bridges and operate ferries across state boundary rivers [108 to 0].

New bills: By Bandy, to prohibit pre-nuptial agreement to rear children in any particular faith; by Brinson, to require coal purchased by state to come from Illinois mines; by Fabey, to require printing of public school books to be done by state of Illinois; by Martens, to require all county treasurers, regardless of county population, to advertise for bids for county deposits; by Lyon, to remove limit on number of deputies employed by board of assessors; by Jenco, to prohibit trading in grain futures unless seller is actual owner and buyer has bona fide intention to receive and pay.

Dailey's action is thought to have been the result of conference with Senator Florence Tyler Bohrer and others who at the last session opposed reapportionment with a contention that the rest of the state must be protected from Chicago.

It is believed they will support Dailey's rather than the proposal of Representative Arthur G. Roe last week, which would limit Cook county in both houses, and it is probable that the Chicago element in the house will support the Dailey plan.

Cook county senators and representatives already have indicated their readiness to go in on the Dailey resolution and are sure of the support from legislators from other big cities of the state which are penalized by the long continued refusal to reapportion. Therefore, the fight will be between the supporters of the Dailey resolution and the backers of the Hicks plan.

Legislative observers pronounce the Hicks move an effort to delay all reapportioning for a few more years.

Requires Two-thirds Vote.

A resolution for a constitutional amendment requires a two-thirds vote in each house. Cook county now has a majority of the fifty-one districts—more than one-third. Therefore, a two-thirds vote for the Hicks resolution is considered impossible.

Mr. Hicks' critics further contend that even if the resolution were passed by the two-thirds vote of each house it would be defeated on the referendum that would follow.

The proposed new constitution submitted to the voters of the state on Dec. 13, 1923, contained a similar limitation upon Chicago. Downstate it was defeated, 157,424 to 330,192, and in Cook county it was beaten, 27,374 to 54,184. The total downstate vote, 37,616—if it had been saved it from defeat under the Cook county vote—would have been a narrow margin.

With the limitation amendment submitted by itself without any of the remedying features of other parts of the proposed constitution, experts say, Cook county would vote unanimously against it and its total would be swayed by large votes from other cities of the state also favoring the present constitutional basis of equality between citizens.

New bills: By Bandy, to prohibit pre-nuptial agreement to rear children in any particular faith; by Brinson, to require coal purchased by state to come from Illinois mines; by Fabey, to require printing of public school books to be done by state of Illinois; by Martens, to require all county treasurers, regardless of county population, to advertise for bids for county deposits; by Lyon, to remove limit on number of deputies employed by board of assessors; by Jenco, to prohibit trading in grain futures unless seller is actual owner and buyer has bona fide intention to receive and pay.

Dailey's action is thought to have been the result of conference with Senator Florence Tyler Bohrer and others who at the last session opposed reapportionment with a contention that the rest of the state must be protected from Chicago.

It is believed they will support Dailey's rather than the proposal of Representative Arthur G. Roe last week, which would limit Cook county in both houses, and it is probable that the Chicago element in the house will support the Dailey plan.

Legislative observers pronounce the Hicks move an effort to delay all reapportioning for a few more years.

Requires Two-thirds Vote.

A resolution for a constitutional amendment requires a two-thirds vote in each house. Cook county now has a majority of the fifty-one districts—more than one-third. Therefore, a two-thirds vote for the Hicks resolution is considered impossible.

Mr. Hicks' critics further contend that even if the resolution were passed by the two-thirds vote of each house it would be defeated on the referendum that would follow.

The proposed new constitution submitted to the voters of the state on Dec. 13, 1923, contained a similar limitation upon Chicago. Downstate it was defeated, 157,424 to 330,192, and in Cook county it was beaten, 27,374 to 54,184. The total downstate vote, 37,616—if it had been saved it from defeat under the Cook county vote—would have been a narrow margin.

With the limitation amendment submitted by itself without any of the remedying features of other parts of the proposed constitution, experts say, Cook county would vote unanimously against it and its total would be swayed by large votes from other cities of the state also favoring the present constitutional basis of equality between citizens.

GANGING A JUDGE.

Gov. Small has been urging Robert Scholes, speaker of the house of representatives, to become a candidate for the Supreme court in the district in which Justice Clyde E. Stone will be a candidate for reelection. At this writing Mr. Scholes was reported to be nearly persuaded but not fully prepared to commit himself.

Justice Stone was one of the five judges who held Gov. Small accountable for interest he had collected and not accounted to the state. There was a minority opinion signed by two judges, but the decision of the majority required restitution.

Small evidently considers himself not only safe from any legislative attempt to impeach him or to declare him disqualified for office under the law, but also in a position to make a political attack upon a judge who would decide a case against him.

Justice Stone apparently is to be subjected to administrative gang war in politics to prove that it is unwise and unsafe for a judge to be guided by law and evidence if in that fashion he would offend a vote controlling politician. If a judicial district will stand for that it will stand for anything.

KELLY OF THE SOUTH PARK ROAD.

There should be no question about the reelection of E. J. Kelly as president of the south park road. Under Mr. Kelly's leadership the south park system has advanced from one accomplishment to another. Notable progress has been made in the realization of the Chicago plan, important traffic arteries have been completed and the parks have increased in usefulness to the public. Mr. Kelly's executive abilities have been long recognized by those conversant with the affairs of the park system and the sanitary district, of which he is chief engineer, but it was not until the Army-Navy game that the public at large became aware of his extraordinary talents in management. Army and navy officials have joined in saying that never in their experience have they seen a crowd of similar proportions handled with such skill. Mr. Kelly deserves reelection on his record. Failure to keep him in office would be equivalent to saying that Chicago does not value competence in public office.

ANIMAL LIFE IN THE LOOP.

For the time being at least the police horses are saved for the loop. The mounted traffic men, Chief Collins says, shall keep their mounts for the rest of the year and he is willing to submit to the judgment of traffic experts as to their future. He wanted to use motorcycle cops instead and said he would. After that announcement he was busy with the horse lovers.

Animal life in the loop has had its play this winter. We do not know how the hawk came out of its controversy with the friends of the pigeons. If he is still feeding around in the loop he has been accepted as a registered citizen. To the contrary there was an exhibit of a dead hawk. He may be in the loop or over Elystan fields. The loop horses took his place in public interest.

There may not be many police matters in which The Tribune could advise Chief Collins, but we believe we could have given him some idea of his prospects if he had submitted his motor cop idea to consultation. The horse, we gather, is one of the best organized teams in American life today. He has a promotion department behind him the like of which is not to be found in the Anti-Slavery league, the National League of Debt Cancellation, the Near East Relief, the friends of Haiti or any Eastern association.

When Collins said that the horse was not as good for traffic work in the loop as the motorcycle, we knew what would happen. We said that the horse was not as good for traffic work as trucks and that cavalry was not as good as tanks. We knew then what would happen. The Horse Association of America was on the job. Its secretary is alert and intelligent. If a horse is mentioned in print anywhere in the United States the secretary knows of it seemingly within an hour and a half. If the mention relates to substitutes for the horse a reply proving error is on its way within another fifteen minutes. Within two days the agricultural schools are heard from.

Letters from the Horse Association are always welcome. The horse heads on the letter paper would embellish any argument and any figures. Any one who wishes to see these horse heads may have his wish by saying publicly that there are fewer horses now than five years ago, that there are fewer mules, that the farmers are using tractors, that cavalry has no military value, that gasoline is cheaper than oats, that the horse is disappearing in the city, that R is disappearing on the farm, that any motor cop is any kind of work better than a horse.

We look for a display of these horse heads tomorrow. We get it by advancing as a fact the error that places are better for the air mail than horses. We shall find that the breed of Pegasus is not extinct, but that Kentucky breeders are prepared to furnish the postoffice with flying horses which are safer, consume less fuel, make easier landings, and will make better time than the airplanes, and will not be forced down by weather. The chief has met the Horse Association. It would be a grand thing if the secretariat got interested in the navy.

MODERN EQUIVALENTS OF THE DUEL.

A hundred years ago if Capt. Peter Wright had written that William E. Gladstone in his pious old age chased women and had amours there would not have been a law case. Lord Gladstone, his son, might have said that Capt. Wright was a foul fellow, a coward, and a fool, but that would have been incidental to other proceedings and Capt. Wright would not have sued for libel. No judge would have heard him defend his statements and other witnesses impeach his testimony.

Lord Gladstone, in spite of his seventy-four years, probably would have met Capt. Wright on the field. If age made that unacceptable to the captain, a younger man would have challenged the captain, and the quality people of London, instead of trying to get into the courtroom, would have tried the surgeons said that Capt. Wright's case or the other man's case was quite serious. Or that one or the other was dead. The quality people would have had their opinions, but unless they thought the instance required more blood letting they would have been discreet in expressions. These were the amenities and ameliorations of life.

If it had been an American case a hundred years ago the same thing would have happened. If in New York, there would have been an excursion to Weehawken; if in Washington, an excursion out to Bladensburg. Andrew Jackson and Charles Dickinson rode from Nashville into Kentucky. When Nashville saw the gay and popular Dickinson again he was in his coffin. The procedure was esteemed as a protection of decorum, polite relations in life, and honorable dealings between men. It required courage. It encouraged a weighing of words. It was supposed to lighten the consideration which men of breeding gave each other. Much was said in praise of it, but something could be said truthfully, but as society tried more and more to rationalize itself certain unescapable defects grew more obnoxious.

Dickinson was in the wrong with Jackson if the story is authentic. He should not have said, even in the zest of conviviality, that Mr. Jackson's wife was faster than his rap horse. When he was warned that it was an inadmissible statement he should not have repeated it, but he was a better shot than Jackson, and if the general expectations of Nashville had been fulfilled at the Kentucky meeting the British would not have encountered Gen. Jackson outside of New Orleans and probably would have taken the city, and the United States would have missed a president.

A man with great skill with the sword or pistol might be of a family of quality and yet a scoundrel. It might be that because of his family standing he could not, according to the code, be punished for his offenses by being caned, whipped, or shot at sight. His skill might give him a definite immunity on the field and his acknowledged quality might give him a definite claim to the protection of the code. Thus he was free to bully, insult, and offend, and be a protected member to peaceable men of greater honor and less skill.

The quality ruffian of surpassing skill had the polite world at his mercy, and the code which was to protect innocence, honor, and decency in life exposed these qualities to dangers from which there was no honorable escape. There also was the sense of avoidable tragedy, as when Aaron Burr's point of honor raised against Hamilton led to a great American dead at Weehawken. It was a polite code of courage, but it didn't work, and therefore Capt. Wright and Lord Gladstone have been at it in court in London. The amenities could ask for some improvement in this method also, but with the duel out this is the best we have, unless a rough and tumble in a club or in a theater lobby or on a boulevard is better.

INTERDEPENDENT INTERESTS.

The Chicago and Northwestern railroad has announced a commuting service for two suburbs beyond Milwaukee. C. A. Calma, passenger traffic manager, said that there are five or six hundred Northwestern passengers who have their work in Chicago and their residences in or outside of Milwaukee. The service is to give them the best facilities for their daily run. A modern metropolitan area cannot be kept within municipal corporation lines, within county lines, or state lines. These lines can be expressed in political opposition, but the larger factors of life ignore them. The natural economic relations of the communities and administrative units can be impaired by political shortsightedness or small-mindedness, but they cannot be changed as for their real nature. Milwaukee and Chicago are closely knit, but Wisconsin politics does its bitter best to prevent the success of the lakes to the gulf waterway.

Editorial of the Day

DISCOVERING CLARK.

[The Indianapolis News.]

Nearly all accounts of the American revolution written for text books have dealt with the subject from the eastern point of view. The American people and their children now seem to be discovering George Rogers Clark. Temple Bodley's book appraises Clark as a hero as great as any the revolution produced. Charles Willis Thompson, in his review of it in the New York Times, says that the history of the revolution will have to be rewritten to include a true account of "the man who made the American empire a possibility." The westerners did not write, he adds, and "for 150 years children have been taught nothing of the western war except that it was a byproduct of the real struggle which is supposed to have taken place between Boston and Savannah."

And, incidentally, Clark, with 150 men, won the Indiana, handled the French, and retook Vincennes. "Great things have been effected by a few men well conducted. Perhaps we may be fortunate." That was the message Clark sent to Patrick Henry. When Gen. Hamilton suggested a three days' truce at Vincennes Clark replied that his only terms were unconditional surrender. Clark moved in his western campaign without pay and this proved his ruin, as he made himself personally responsible for whatever debts he contracted. Every cent he earned was taken. Becoming at last poverty stricken, dependent on the bounty of his relatives, Virginia awarded him half pay as a colonel—$400 a year. So slender were the stories recorded about Clark that he became better near the end. Two words that Virginia presented him he broke across his knees. The Virginia assembly finally learned that the stories circulated about Clark were untrue and sent a representative from the governor with another sword and with words of commendation. Clark heard the messenger through, then said: "Young man, when Virginia needs a sword, I found her one. Now I need bread." Now, years after, Indiana is leading the country to appreciate what George Rogers Clark did.

How to Keep Well.

By Dr. W. A. Evans.

Questions pertinent to hygiene, sanitation, and prevention of disease, if matters of general interest, will be answered in this column. Where space will not permit, or the subject is not suitable, letters will be personally answered, subject to proper limitation, and where a stamped, addressed envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make a diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases. Requests for such service cannot be answered.

MILDER DISEASES: SOME REASONS.

THE able and venerable health officer of Providence, Dr. Charles V. Chapin, thinks scarlet fever is getting milder every day in every way. The study of scarlet fever by Pope, which showed this to be true, was made in Providence. Dr. Chapin finds no evidence to prove that scarlet fever is spread from one town to another. In fact, it is hard to prove that a given case of scarlet fever was contracted from some other case. There is at least a possibility that streptococci, which are very much at home in the throat, may change a little and cause a case of scarlet fever. The hopeful angle to Dr. Chapin's opinion is that the disease, which has been gradually evolving into a mild disease, may continue the same course and evolve itself out of existence in another decade or so.

With the help that we now have from an efficient antitoxin, and the further help which we should shortly have from a vaccine, scarlet fever should be wiped out in even less time than a program of universal vaccination would.

Dr. Hill holds that the improvements in our standards of cleanliness in the sick room, in the home especially, is one reason for this evolution in scarlet fever. Dr. Chapin does not say whether or not, he disagrees with Dr. Hill.

Smallpox is also undergoing some evolution, in the opinion of Dr. Chapin. But it is evolving according to the DeVries method of mutation, or discontinuous variation, rather than according to the Darwinian law of gradual adjustment, as is the case with scarlet fever.

For a number of years the British have been debating whether there were several kinds of smallpox, or only one. In some epidemics smallpox is very mild; in others, very fatal. Some British authorities say this difference is due to different strains, while others say good surroundings for the man (bad surroundings for the smallpox germ) will cause the disease to become milder in type.

DISPOSITION OF ESTATE. Chicago, Feb. 3.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—I. What disposition is made of a woman's estate when she is found to be insane and committed to an institution? There are two sons and a daughter, or that Solomon; had too many lady friends. There ought to be a law or something against it.

WHERE THE MONEY GOES. Batavia, Ill., Jan. 25.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—I married a widow with three daughters. When my husband dies, how much insurance do I get? Much of the home and savings and vacant property can the daughters claim?

2. How would you advise me to adjust matters? 3. Can property in joint tenancy be claimed by them? 4. If the insurance is payable to the individual beneficiary, it would go to the person named. If it is payable to his estate, it would be distributed as personal property.

5. If he could will his entire estate to you, but if he leaves no will you can claim on the estate. 6. If your husband is willing to make a will in your favor you should have him do so. 7. Property held in joint tenancy as distinguished from tenancy in common would go to the surviving joint tenant to the exclusion of the heirs of the one who died first.

8. If your husband is willing to make a will in your favor you should have him do so. 9. Property held in joint tenancy as distinguished from tenancy in common would go to the surviving joint tenant to the exclusion of the heirs of the one who died first.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

65 YEARS AGO TODAY

FEBRUARY 4, 1862.

CAIRO.—Twelve steamers laden with troops, in charge of Commodore Washington Graham, left here to join a still larger force at another point. Gen. Grant and staff went on the W. H. Brown and Gen. McClelland and staff on the Albatross. This was every indication of being a genuine, active movement, and that something important will be accomplished when the expedition attacks Fort Henry and Donelson. Gen. E. A. Paine is left in command here.

CUMBERLAND, Md.—It is reported that Gen. Lander has asked to be relieved of command of this division, because of disgust at being held in check by Maj. Gen. McClelland. It is rumored for pressing his plan to attack Gen. Jackson's rebel forces.

ST. LOUIS.—Maj. Gen. Halleck promulgated an order that the president, professors, curators and other officers of the University of Missouri are required to subscribe to an oath of allegiance and file it with the provost marshal. "This institution, having been endowed by the government of the United States, its funds should not be used to treason or to instruct traitors," the order reads.

FORTRESS MONROE.—The crew of a rebel boat reported that heavy firing had been heard at Norfolk for the last two days.

CHICAGO.—L. B. Brennan, Esq., editor of the Staats Zeitung, was shot in the head by L. J. J. Nelson, quartermaster in Voss' cavalry regiment at Camp Douglas, after a quarrel over a caustic article in the paper reflecting severely on Nelson and his regiment.

25 YEARS AGO TODAY

FEBRUARY 4, 1892.

CHICAGO.—Three burglars were caught in the act of looting the residence of William F. Dunmer, 115 Lincoln park boulevard, while the family was absent in California. The house is the only one in the block bounded by the boulevard and Superior, Huron and St. Clair streets, just south of the grounds occupied by the old Wyan-dotte Tennis and Skating Club.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Justice Harlan in the Supreme court handed down a decision upholding the right of the Illinois Central railroad to the lake shore property it now occupies north of Randolph street and between 13th and 14th streets. The court, however, perpetually enjoins the railroad from filling in any more land on the water front.

CHICAGO.—The city council passed an ordinance taking off the limit on the height of fireproof buildings. The old limit of 100 feet for mill construction buildings and 60 feet for ordinary con-

WOOF-WOOF THE BLOODHOUND.

WITNESSES in New York testify that rum runners are bringing their wicked wares down the lake into Chicago by the boatload. That's going to cause tremendous crowds on our shore line. But maybe it's just a clever piece of advertising by some bathing suit manufacturer.

THE EXILE.

When cities wear their bravest cloth
Of spinning gold and jeweled lights,
Give me, O God, the time to love
The quietness of country nights;
I shall not care to feel the press
Of feet upon the dancing floor,
Oh, give me but a shadowed tree,
And one blue star . . . I ask no more.

For I have lived too much alone
To want to share a young heart's ache,
I know the glitter of their moods—
The armor they too wisely make;
They have so very little time
To spend with love and beauty there,
Let me have only wind-swept hills . . .
I shall not care . . . I shall not care.

But, if I go with them the way
Their dancing feet make on the sky,
Give me the heart to understand
This code the young are living by;
And, when their eager feet at last
Have paused to rest . . . their songs all smug,
Give me, O God, the heart to wish
That they might be forever young!

AE, HOW THE LITTLE BIRDS sang yesterday
how blue was the sky and how balmy the air.

We've Heard Something Like That About Noah.
Dick: Can't something be done to stop these fellows from saying such terrible things about great and good men who are no longer with us? First there was Washington and now Gladstone. Before long they'll be telling us that Noah drank too much, or that Solomon had too many lady friends. There ought to be a law or something against it.

WE HAVE TO ANNOUNCE that Mr. John Alook, the scholarly and gentlemanly Sunday editor of our highly esteemed contemporary, The Chicago Tribune, has listened to the earnest pleas of the Line readers, and on next Sabbath morning will present on page 2 of the picture section a picture of Mr. Dennis King.

TO MY TEACHER—
REIL: Today my teacher read us a story. It was about a man who climbed up a high smokestack and couldn't get down. . . . Pretty soon lots of people came to help the poor man down, but nothing could be done until the man's wife shouted, Unravel your sock, Jim! So Jim unraveled his sock and let the string down. . . . When teacher got that far with the story he said, Now can any little boy or girl tell me why the man on the smokestack unraveled his sock and let the string down? A little girl said, Yes sir! I know; the poor man wanted his wife to have the string. No, no, said teacher. . . . Now supposing I was on top of the smokestack and I let a string down, what would you think? And a little boy said, We would think it was kind of funny that you never told us you had a wife. . . . You don't get the point of the story at all, said teacher. . . . There I am up there and I want you to tie something on the string that will help me to tie now what would that be? . . . I know! said a little girl. A rope! . . . That's it exactly, said my teacher. And how did you know it was a rope I needed? Because, said the little girl, you read all of the story to us day before yesterday. OACIA.

SWIMMING IN THEIR OWN SEA

[St. Louis Post-Dispatch.]

WITNESSES in New York testify that rum runners are bringing their wicked wares down the lake into Chicago by the boatload. That's going to cause tremendous crowds on our shore line. But maybe it's just a clever piece of advertising by some bathing suit manufacturer.

REIL: Glancing through the merry old Shakespeare the other day, it came to me that Lady Macbeth would never have made a vaudeville address. In one passage she yells, "Out, out, damned spot."

WOOF-WOOF THE BLOODHOUND.

When cities wear their bravest cloth
Of spinning gold and jeweled lights,
Give me, O God, the time to love
The quietness of country nights;
I shall not care to feel the press
Of feet upon the dancing floor,
Oh, give me but a shadowed tree,
And one blue star . . . I ask no more.

For I have lived too much alone
To want to share a young heart's ache,
I know the glitter of their moods—
The armor they too wisely make;
They have so very little time
To spend with love and beauty there,
Let me have only wind-swept hills . . .
I shall not care . . . I shall not care.

But, if I go with them the way
Their dancing feet make on the sky,
Give me the heart to understand
This code the young are living by;
And, when their eager feet at last
Have paused to rest . . . their songs all smug,
Give me, O God, the heart to wish
That they might be forever young!

Dick: Can't something be done to stop these fellows from saying such terrible things about great and good men who are no longer with us? First there was Washington and now Gladstone. Before long they'll be telling us that Noah drank too much, or that Solomon had too many lady friends. There ought to be a law or something against it.

WE HAVE TO ANNOUNCE that Mr. John Alook, the scholarly and gentlemanly Sunday editor of our highly esteemed contemporary, The Chicago Tribune, has listened to the earnest pleas of the Line readers, and on next Sabbath morning will present on page 2 of the picture section a picture of Mr. Dennis King.

TO MY TEACHER—
REIL: Today my teacher read us a story. It was about a man who climbed up a high smokestack and couldn't get down. . . . Pretty soon lots of people came to help the poor man down, but nothing could be done until the man's wife shouted, Unravel your sock, Jim! So Jim unraveled his sock and let the string down. . . . When teacher got that far with the story he said, Now can any little boy or girl tell me why the man on the smokestack unraveled his sock and let the string down? A little girl said, Yes sir! I know; the poor man wanted his wife to have the string. No, no, said teacher. . . . Now supposing I was on top of the smokestack and I let a string down, what would you think? And a little boy said, We would think it was kind of funny that you never told us you had a wife. . . . You don't get the point of the story at all, said teacher. . . . There I am up there and I want you to tie something on the string that will help me to tie now what would that be? . . . I know! said a little girl. A rope! . . . That's it exactly, said my teacher. And how did you know it was a rope I needed? Because, said the little girl, you read all of the story to us day before yesterday. OACIA.

TELLS ALDERMEN HEAT QUALITY OF GAS DECLINES

City Expert Blames State
Permit of 1922.

Heat units in the gas sold to Chicago consumers by the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company, have been reduced from 565 to between 530 and 540 per thousand cubic feet, C. C. Hotchkiss, city public service engineer, declared yesterday.

Hotchkiss appeared before the council committee on gas, oil, and electricity in connection with the fight being made to prevent the Illinois commerce commission from permitting a cut to 450 units throughout the state, as asked by the Illinois Gas association.

Aldermen Show Surprise.
Hotchkiss' statement came as a surprise to the aldermen who, thought the Peoples company gas was up to the 565 heat unit standard of the ordinance of 1913. They ordered an investigation.

The lower heat unit gas, the engineer explained, often pops, backfires, and goes out when lighted, but can be manufactured more cheaply than gas of higher heating qualities.

"The result of the change simply is that the company makes more money, and if there is no corresponding reduction in rates, the consumer, who gets poorer service, is the loser," he continued.

Sale of such gas here was authorized by the state commerce commission April 1, 1923, according to Mr. Hotchkiss. But no notice of the change was ever given to the public, he alleged.

Quality Quickly Changes.
Prior to 1923, under the 1913 ordinance, the heat units in Chicago's gas were 565 or more. After the order, which permitted a cut to 530, it was said, they dropped to 545.

The argument of the company, Mr. Hotchkiss said, is that the gas pressure has been increased to make up for the lower heat unit.

Donald R. Richberg, special counsel for the city in the gas cases told the committee fifty Illinois cities joined Chicago to oppose the general cut asked by the Illinois Gas association at a commission hearing Feb. 23.

GAS TANK BLAST
DAMAGE $300,000;
WORKMAN HURT

Five hundred persons, at work in a nearby building, narrowly escaped injury at noon yesterday and thousands of windows were shattered when a tank with a capacity of 10,000 cubic feet of hydrogen exploded at the plant of the Acme Oxygen company at 1109 West Thirty-ninth street. Standing close by was another tank of similar size, but it did not explode.

Only one workman, William Meister, 35, of 2136 Coulter street, who was hit by flying bricks, was injured by the explosion.

The damage to nearby buildings was estimated at more than $300,000. Windows within a mile radius were broken.

CHICAGO CRIME CALLED TRIVIAL FOR GREAT CITY

Best Place to Live,
Sociologist Says.

"Doesn't Chicago's crime record give this city a black eye when great cities are compared?" has been asked many times of Dr. W. L. Bailey, professor of sociology at Northwestern university, he said yesterday, and then he gave this answer:

"Chicago has been libeled. It was recently shown that this city's crime record is not as black as it has been painted."

"One can go further and say that Chicago has surprisingly little crime in view of the conditions. This is not to justify the lamentable amount of crime which exists, but only to point out those conditions in the modern city which tend to produce crime."

City Loosely Organized.
The typical modern city is rapidly centralizing population and wealth, while at the same time it is loosely organized. The loose organization of vast modern business has resulted in an exceptional amount of crime in the business world and the same is true of political life.

Various forms of insurance have been done much to lessen these evils. It is, however, a rather special type of crime, more directly personal, which is given most publicity and which causes the average person most concern.

Such crimes are of grave concern but of relatively little importance to the city at large. Perhaps this is the reason why they are not, or cannot be, more sternly and effectively repressed.

Cites the Greater Crime.
"Wholesale and persistent offenses against housing laws and pure food regulations and many other sorts of crimes against the economic and social order are readily seen to be a greater menace to life and even property."

"Chicago may, even when its record is explained, have an excess of certain sorts of crime, but its comparative standing among great cities as to general economic welfare, vital conditions, family life, and organized religion, as well as the major forms of civic activity and general education, prove that this city has an enviable record of freedom from crime's major forms."

"Chicago has undoubtedly an excess of gang warfare, gunplay, and hold-ups, but at least it furnishes its citizens generally with the most satisfactory conditions of living of any great city in the world."

SIMPSON DONS
OVERALLS; OPENS
LEGION'S DRIVE

Clad in overalls and wielding sticky poster brushes, James Simpson, president of Marshall Field & Co., and Col. A. A. Sprague yesterday officially opened the Chicago activities of the 1,000,000-for-the-nation membership campaign of the American Legion.

The objective of the campaign, to be waged intensively in every section of the country, is to secure the 1,000,000 members for the Legion before the reunion to be held in Paris next fall.

Mr. Simpson and Col. Sprague climbed up ladders alongside a huge billboard at Harrison and Loomis streets and personally "spread" the first poster in Chicago advertising the campaign.

MUNICIPAL PIER HARBOR PLAN IS TOLD BY PUTNAM

Twelve thousand tons of parcel freight could be handled yearly at any one of three optional harbors planned for the Municipal pier site, according to Maj. Rufus W. Putnam, chief engineer for the Commercial club. These plans will be presented Feb. 15. Harbor schemes for the other four sites in view will be completed by July 1, when a selection will be made.

Calculating that by 1970 the parcel interchange at Chicago will have reached 12,000 tons annually, Maj. Putnam has worked out harbor details to provide 50,000 lineal feet of dock space. One of the tentative plans for harbor development near the mouth of the Chicago river consists of a series of piers extending north and south of the pier and parallel to it. Off Grant park would be a pier shunting to the south-east. The east-west piers would continue, but would abut shoreward against the slanting dock, growing shorter towards the south.

The second plan is somewhat similar, except that the piers joining the south-east extension would meet it at right angles.

Possibility of indefinite extension, with no material alteration, is the advantage of the third proposal. Under this plan two piers, one on each side of the Municipal pier, would extend east as far as the government breakwaters. Pointing toward the Municipal pier from the flanking piers would be stub docks. The result would be a series of parallel slips, resembling a broad toothed comb. Besides being capable of ready extension, Maj. Putnam points out that the layout is symmetrical.

Each one of the proposals attempts to surmount the problem afforded by the necessity of maintaining easy outlet from the river, but any one of them will permit the $3,000,000 outer boulevard link bridge to be constructed across the river just east of the warehouse along the Ogden slip.

Belt line connections to carry three thousand freight cars a day must be provided either north or south of the river. Walker drive, too, must be extended for train transfers, it was planned.

Pocketing the Landlord's Profit

SAVING of 30 percent of normal rental under 100% co-operative ownership is made possible by elimination of many expenses of the ordinary apartment. There is no landlord's profit because tenants own their own landlords. With all apartments occupied by their owners there can be no expense for vacancies. Since every tenant-owner does his own redecorating when and as it pleases him, this large expense does not appear in the 100% co-operative apartment budget.

WESTARP'S HOCH DER KAISER JARS NEW BERLIN RULE

Minimizes Party's Oath to Support Republic.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

(Copyright, 1927, by The Chicago Tribune.)
BERLIN, Feb. 2.—Chancellor Marx presided in the reichstag today and in a speech tried to convince his countrymen that the German republic is safe in the hands of his new cabinet, four members of which are former paladins of the former kaiser. He talked.

He outlined a program for the preservation of the republic and for the fulfillment of the Locarno peace principles, carefully calculated to allay the fears of the republicans. But Count Westarp, speaking in the name of the Nationalists, overthrew Herr Marx's card house and convinced the members of the reichstag, despite their oath to the republic, will do everything for the reestablishment of the monarchy.

Herr Marx sought to emphasize the loyalty of the new nationalist bloc to the republican constitution, which was greeted by storms of derisive laughter from the Socialists, Democrats, and Communists.

Foreign Policy.

In the question of Germany's foreign policy he was adamant in holding up the traditions established to continue a foreign policy based on reciprocal understanding of nations.

"Abandon the idea of revenge," he said. "Whatever the attitude of the political parties has been in Germany, the idea of reciprocal understanding will be the foundation of our future policy. Our relations with countries not in the league of nations are of the greatest importance to us."

Count Westarp, leader of the Nationalists, speaking for his party and the four members it sent into the reichstag, asserted the Nationalists "made no concession regarding their political opinion. To recognize a state does not mean recognition of the form of the state. We recognize that the treaty of Locarno and membership in the league of nations is the foundation of the German foreign policy."

Rape Petition on Germany.

"We are against a policy of violence and revenge. It is impossible in view of the disarmament imposed on Germany. We want a policy of understanding, but it must be a reciprocal understanding. So long as there is one foreign soldier on German soil there can be no question of real understanding."

"We have not been asked to give up our personal monarchistic convictions. The battle for state form and national colors will continue, but by legal means."

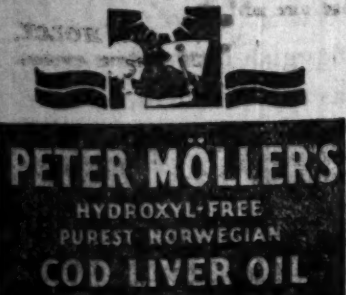

Count Westarp's declarations were greeted with storms of indignation. The Socialists immediately filed a motion of no confidence against the Marx cabinet. The Communists and Democrats did the same. The vote on these motions was postponed until Saturday.

Protection against disease

You can protect your children from most of the diseases common to childhood if you build up their resistance with cod liver oil. Peter Moller's Cod Liver Oil is of greatest value in making healthy blood and building up resistance to disease.

Peter Moller's Cod Liver Oil is tasteless and odorless. The exclusive Moller process protects the oil from the air throughout its extraction and manufacture, rendering it "Hydroxyl-free"—absolutely devoid of after-taste. This is why Peter Moller's is specified for those who cannot take ordinary cod liver oil. Be sure to get Peter Moller's. It is worth a little more money to give your children an oil that is tasteless, odorless, free from after-taste. At all high-grade druggists.

RESTORE CAROL, PEASANT PARTY TELLS ROUMANIA

Demand in Parliament Brings Uproar.

BY JAY ALLEN.

(Copyright, 1927, by The Chicago Tribune.)
BUCHAREST, Rumania, Feb. 2.—The powerful national peasant party threw the Rumanian political world into an uproar today by the formal demand in both houses of parliament that the crown council be called to revise the constitutional provision of Jan. 4, 1926, by which Prince Carol lost his right to the throne.

Rising simultaneously in the chamber of deputies and the senate, M. Maniu, president of the party, and M. Mironescu, read the resolution prepared in secret session by the party's executive committee, thus making the first tangible move toward the reestablishment of "Mr. Carol Carolman" as crown prince of Rumania.

Demand Carol's Return.

The national peasant party, which grew out of a coalition of the left wing of the old National party and the Peasants, and which numerically is the strongest faction in Rumania, asserts in the resolution that, with the king in his precarious condition, the constitutional monarchy of Rumania can be preserved only by recalling the real heir to the throne, hinting that there is danger to the constitutional principle in the ramshackle regency devised by the act of Jan. 4.

The party says the regency is likely to fall into the hands of the Bratianu brothers. Jon Bratianu is a former premier, and has long dictated Rumanian policies.

Acting as though M. Maniu and his associates suddenly had produced an infernal machine, both houses went wild, with Jon Bratianu's Liberals and Gen. Averescu's People's party, who hold the whip hand in parliament, expressing violent indignation and hurling insults at the peasant group.

Confused Newspapers.
The entire issue of the two most important newspapers in Bucharest, the Cuvantul and Universal, and a third paper which dared to print the party's resolution, immediately were confiscated. The entire Rumanian press was given official notice that a discussion of the newest development or any other aspect of the succession problem would mean summary suppression.

The government threatens reprisals. Just because nobody has got around to revoking the martial law hanging over from the war, it still exists in Bucharest, with armed patrols roaming the streets, but to meet the present crisis the government has taken extra pains to bring in additional police into play to supplement the already large garrison.

Says Carol Drafted Plan.

THE NATIONAL PEASANT PARTY was actually drafted by Prince Carol's hand two weeks ago when the party chieftains went an agent to him in France.

Jon Bratianu has issued a statement that the law of Jan. 4 cannot be revoked.

REPORT CAROL KILLS MAN.
Two Chenele, 34, of 1724 West 24th street, was struck and killed by a freight car yesterday in the yards of the Chicago and Northwestern railroad at Wilson avenue.

LAMENTS LACK OF EVANGELISM IN M. E. CHURCH

BY THE REV. W. B. HORTON.

Bishop F. D. Leets of the Indianapolis area of the Methodist Episcopal church expressed yesterday deep grief over the lack of old-fashioned revival spirit in the Methodist church as he found it. He was one of the speakers at the meeting of the church board of education at the Edgewater Beach hotel.

"Soul saving by members of the church is almost a lost art," said Bishop Leets. "I go about among the churches in my episcopal duties and I discover that neither ministers or church members are talking to sinners about their souls' salvation. The churches will die unless the gospel of Jesus Christ is taught and practiced."

"The Methodist Episcopal church, I fear, is losing the emphasis on evangelism it originally had. The gospel of Jesus Christ is not only finding it difficult in China, but also in America. No education is complete that omits Christ, the teaching about sin and salvation from sin."

EGAN WITNESS DRAWS REBUKE IN ATTACK CASE

State Shakes Story of Girl's Drinking.

Zeal to blacken a girl's character in order that he might testify for Frank Egan, 23 years old, on trial before Judge Emanuel Eller on charges of beating and twice attacking a 22 year old girl on May 30, 1926, yesterday brought David McCormac a severe rebuke from Judge Eller and promise of possible contempt of court proceedings for perjury at the conclusion of the Egan trial.

McCormac, 22 years old, an automobile salesman, living at 7711 South Loomis street, took the stand yesterday morning to swear that a year ago this February he, in company with other young men, had taken the complaining witness to a dance and later had bought her quantities of beer at a saloon "somewhere on Wentworth avenue." This was supplemental to Egan's defense that the girl was drunk the afternoon of May 30, 1926, and that the two black eyes and broken nose she received that day were the result of her fall to a carpeted floor.

State Shakes His Story.
Questioned by Attorney Robert Cantwell, defense counsel, McCormac was sure he had taken the girl out, was sure he could identify her, was sure she had become quite drunk.

But when Assistant State's Attorney Frank Matousek, who with Assistant State's Attorney Arthur Carsten, is in charge of the prosecution, began to cross-examine McCormac he wasn't so sure. At the noon recess, he admitted to the prosecutors that he wasn't so positive that it was the girl who is now accusing Egan and said that a James Abner, who knew Egan's brother, had asked him to "help out a friend." The state's attorney's office took McCormac into custody pending Judge Eller's investigation.

Admits Egan Bought Him.
Last night, after court adjournment, McCormac, taken into the judge's chambers, suddenly admitted that Egan himself had sought him out Wednesday night at the automobile show at the Coliseum.

When the questioning by Judge Eller was over McCormac admitted that he had been with a girl five feet four inches tall, with brown hair, and with the same first name as the complaining witness, but beyond that he would not go. He was released on his promise that he would be available after this trial is over.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 3.—(Special.)—Acceptance by the house of the cruiser amendment of the senate to the naval appropriation bill was forecast today by Representative Tilson (Rep., Conn.), majority leader of the house.

Mr. Tilson gave it as his opinion that a majority of the house would vote to concur in the senate amendment which provides $1,200,000 to commence construction of the last three cruisers authorized by the act of 1924. The army appropriation bill was reported to the senate today from the senate appropriations committee. The senate committee added $2,285,135 to the amount of the bill as passed by the house, bringing the total up to $360,233,653. The budget estimates called for $360,000,797 and appropriations for the current year were $347,198,501.

The principal increase by the senate committee consisted of $1,547,255 for the pay of the army.

Villa Eilen-Roc

Situated at the Cap d'Antibes (Alpes Maritimes) France and of its
Magnificent Park Containing Approximately Eleven
Hectares and a Half (About 26½ Acres)

Among the princely dwellings located along the Riviera, Antibes, half way between Cannes and Nice, possesses the "Marvel of Marvels": The VILLA EILEN-ROC.

This truly royal residence should be more aptly described by a name such as these given to historic buildings: "Rococo" or the "Château," because it is absolutely unique.

By the spaciousness of its grounds, over 12½ hectares, by its position, it overlooks the sea from a height of 30 meters (about 100 feet)—by its location, it is built on the solid rock, thereby being rendered absolutely damp-proof, by the variety of its dependencies, it contains woods of pine and of quantities of other trees, lawns, kitchen-gardens, beds of fragrant flowers of great diversity, shady avenues, paths along the cliffs, or under the overhanging rocks, the VILLA EILEN-ROC is without the slightest doubt the most beautiful estate of the COTE D'AZUR.

In the shadows of the cliffs a clever craftsman has provided rest, motion where the fortunate occupier can, after walking along the romantic paths, contemplate in comfort the cliffs of the Illetta, Croisette and Saint-Tropez, and the islands of Sainte-Marguerite and Estérel.

From these paths selected with happy taste, steps and terraces descend to curves and strips of sands or wind their way between lawns strewn with roses or feathered with the golden plumes of mimosa.

Be it in the dependencies, on the ground floor or in the servants' quarters, or in the side where are the smaller drawing-rooms, the billiards and the large reception "salon," the dining rooms and the billiard room, or on the upper floors where are located suites of bedrooms with their bathrooms, everywhere the same meticulous care for art and comfort has been shown.

What a beautiful dream come true is such a residence.

Grace lives there again in this villa built in the Corinthian style, with its wide colonnade framing an imposing porch and wide marble steps from which the eye can sweep the ocean and see Cannes and the Estérel.

Fortunate indeed is the being who can hope to possess such an estate, away but a few hours' journey from cold and bleak climates, but fortunate also and proud of his accomplishment is the artist who has given to his picturesque a regime as the Riviera the VILLA EILEN-ROC, the Jewel or the Pearl of the Cote d'Azur, since it is sufficiently important to preserve the estate the names which fame has given it.

LETTER REVEALS
FINANCIAL WORRY
OF LADY CURZONTells of Vanishing Riches;
Read at Trial.

Financial troubles of Mary Leiter, American heiress of a quarter of a century ago, who married Lord Curzon, viceroy of India, were revealed in letters introduced yesterday in the $250,000,000 Curzon estate case before Superior Judge Denis E. Sullivan.

In 1921, the children of the late Lord Curzon, pioneer Chicago merchant, were divided into two groups in a dispute over the millions of the estate. Then, as now, Joseph Leiter and Mrs. Colin Campbell were arrayed against Lady Curzon, the countess of Suffolk, and the other half of the estate.

In almost hysterical terms in which she depicted a fear of losing all her share of the property, the marchioness of Curzon wrote to her sister, Mrs. Campbell, begging her to help her in the management of the estate. Mrs. Campbell merely turned over the letters to Leiter, it was brought out, commenting that she thought he was the "one honest man in the affair."

Her Income Vanishes.
In her letter to Mrs. Campbell, Lady Curzon wrote:

"My Darling Nan:
My income from my quarter share in the estate has vanished and the $250,000 which was to be my credit on the books has gone. I am papa's only child who is powerless to prevent the sale of the estate and I am the first to suffer as no one cares for my interests or those of my children."

[Lady Curzon apparently referred to the fact that she was the only one of the four Leiter children who was not a trustee of the estate and thus had no voting share in its management.]

"The estate is being ruined. It looks as though it would not be five years before we are poor and needy. Each use of our money as is being made would have killed papa and he promised me he would not let the estate be ruined by Zeigler [the Zeigler estate mine] as it was by wheat, etc."

Ordeal at Mention of Wheat.
As this reference to Leiter's costly attempt to corner the wheat market was read aloud by Attorney Frank H. Scott, representing Lady Suffolk, the pretty defendant grained and glanced with amusement at his sister sitting on the other side of the courtroom.

"Jim (Lord Curzon) will blame me for permitting complete ruin being brought upon us," the letter continued. "I beg you on my knees to give your power of attorney to some one not a trustee."

"No one has taken care of my original marriage settlement and that also has depreciated in value. I ask in fairness that the estate will protect and save me from ruin."

HUGE FARM MART IS PLANNED FOR
1933 CENTENNIAL11 Projects Outlined in Report.

Plans to stabilize agriculture and to stimulate a "back to the farm" movement are features in the proposal of the committee on organization of the Chicago Centennial celebration in 1933 to erect in Chicago the largest agricultural mart in the world, dedicated to the farmer and the farm industry of America.

The agricultural mart is one of eleven projects the committee proposes to develop in Burnham park, along the lake front from Roosevelt road to Jackson park, in celebration of Chicago's 100th birthday. The other ten as outlined in a report made yesterday by Chairman Edward N. Hurley to Mayor Dwyer, most of which will remain as permanent contributions to the city's culture, are a public health unit, a sports arena, a horticultural hall, and buildings devoted to manufacturing, engineering, chemistry, transportation, electricity, religion, and labor.

On one of the islands to be constructed in Lake Michigan between the Field museum and Jackson park, preferably one near 12th street, it is proposed to lease ten acres for 99 years at $1 a year to the Chicago Agricultural Foundation, an institution to be organized to further the agricultural interests of America.

Here a permanent agricultural mart involving an investment of from $5,000,000 to $10,000,000 will be constructed, consisting of three main divisions: A branch of the United States department of agriculture, a building devoted to offices and showrooms for all firms manufacturing farm wares and for other farm organizations, and a postgraduate college for the honor students of all agricultural colleges, where they would take courses in business practice.

LABOR'S O. K. ON FASCISM VICTORY
FOR MUSSOLINILeaders Indorse Workers'
Syndicates.

BY JOHN CLAYTON.
[Chicago Tribune Staff Service.]
(Copyright, 1927, By The Chicago Tribune.)

ROME, Feb. 3.—Recognition of Fascism by the leaders of the recently dissolved Italian Confederation of Labor, who formerly represented 90 per cent of the Italian workers, is the most important victory yet achieved by Premier Mussolini in his consolidation of all the elements of state behind Fascism.

This was brought out in a document reporting the proceedings of the meeting of the executive committee which resolved the "Confederation of Labor," which once opposed Fascism, on Jan. 16. The paper reviews the activities of the Italian syndicalism and its recognition of the rights of the state to interfere in the struggle of the classes. The labor leaders recognize the new Fascist workers' syndicates. The leaders were under the presidency of Rinaldo Rigola, veteran of syndicalism, who more than two decades ago took his place beside Soviet men of the creators of the syndicalist idea.

World Labor Bureau Helps.
The agreement was not reached without difficulties and long negotiations. To Albert Thomas, president of the International labor bureau at Geneva, goes much of the credit for bringing the two parties together. His efforts enabled the negotiations to continue even after the purely political labor elements had fled from Italy after the application of the safety of state law by the Fascist regime.

The labor leaders' statement says: "While we do not deny the objective reality of class differences, we abandon all theoretical preconceptions and take due notice of the fact that the state proclaims the principle of its right and duty to interfere in class differences and strikes."

"The Fascist regime has passed a courageous law concerning discipline in collective labor relations. We see in that law the acceptance of the principles that are ours also. As long as the liberal state existed on the one side, with the workers standing against the state itself on the other side, such a law was impossible. The Fascist revolution has cut the Gordian knot now and we must take due notice of it."

Hope for Success of Plan.
"We would be in contradiction to ourselves if we declared ourselves against either the corporate state or the charter of labor which the Fascist regime means to put in operation. One has only to recall our vows and our projects in the past to establish the fact that we must contribute with our actions and our criticism to the success of such experiments."

"Every one knows or feels that there is a wealth of experience in Italy which would be utilized for the common interest, and that there are men who, in the long years of work among laborers, acquired a special aptitude, making it possible for them better to understand the social problems and interpret them to the masses."

The leaders go on to say that they intend to assist in the education of workers to fit them to take part in the new scheme.

The Fascist press hails the labor leaders' action in approving Fascist syndicalism as a valuable recognition of Premier Mussolini's work for the reorganization of labor to conform with the principles of the Fascist state.

Mercury at 52 Ties Record
for Warmth Here on Feb. 3

Yesterday's warmth tied the years' record for Feb. 3, with the thermometer reading 52 degrees above zero from 2 to 4 o'clock in the afternoon. Only twice since 1872 has the mercury soared so high on that date, according to weather bureau records. Henry J. Cox, senior meteorologist, said the warm wave probably will end today with the temperature going to about 30 above.

DRY LAW DEFEAT BOOMS ONTARIO HOTEL BUILDING

$25,000,000 in Projects
Planned in 2 Cities.

BY GEORGE SMITH.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
TORONTO, Ont., Feb. 3.—With about $25,000,000 worth of proposed hotel construction and improvements already planned for Toronto and Hamilton alone, Ontario is feeling the first economic benefits of its vote to abolish the prohibition law, which for eleven years it has vainly endeavored to enforce. The total proposed investments in first class hotel projects announced in Ontario within the last three days outstrip the record for any previous decade.

Outstanding among the half dozen projects just announced is the proposal to build Canada's largest hotel, at the corner of Yonge and Melinda streets, in Toronto. It will occupy a whole block and cost more than $6,000,000. It will have 1,040 rooms. It is a Stalder undertaking. Options have been obtained on most of the properties required.

Railroads to Build Hotels.
Sensing the business change to be effected by the operation of the new liquor law to be enacted by the Ontario legislature, both the Canadian Pacific and the Canadian National railroads have announced their intention to build hotels in Toronto costing about $5,000,000 apiece. The Canadian Pacific will build on the site of the old Queen's hotel in Front street, and the Canadian National is behind a big hotel venture which will occupy a block in Queen street, fronting on University avenue.

Hotel ventures on a slightly smaller scale are planned elsewhere in Toronto and in Hamilton. In other Canadian cities there also are rumors of pending deals.

Comments Dry Law Repeal.
Maj. Thomas Kins, who opened the debate on the lieutenant governor's address in the Ontario legislature today, commented on Ontario's move toward abolition of prohibition as one which would create a desirable psychology of "moral responsibility" among citizens. Only when such moral responsibility in the use of liquor was found lacking in individuals would the proposed liquor laws necessitate legal and court action against citizens, he said.

MAY QUARANTINE ILLINOIS IN WAR ON CORN BORER

Washington, D. C., Feb. 3.—(Special.)—Announcement of a public hearing next Tuesday on the advisability of extending the European corn borer quarantine to include the state of Illinois was made today by the federal horticulture board. The proposal for an extension of the quarantine is due to the appearance of the corn borer in Kankakee county in that state.

The hearing will be combined with one previously announced on the question of extending the quarantine to include New Jersey and Connecticut.

BOB OFFICE OF MOTOR COMMERCE.
The Quality Motor Parts company, 3127 South Michigan avenue, was entered by creditors, who knocked the combination off the safe and secured with $125.

ASSEMBLY TAKES HOUR TO SPANK 'INSULTER' OF SOL

Plan Official Scolding for Next Week.

Madison, Wis., Feb. 3.—(Special.)—Members of the assembly today spent an hour airing their opinions on intolerance in general and especially the alleged insult to Jews by C. B. Ballard, state superintendent of public property, with the result that the lower house may adopt a resolution next week censuring Mr. Ballard.

The debate started when State Treasurer Solomon Levitan made public a letter he had received from Mr. Ballard and declared was an insult to him and to members of his race. The assembly voted, 57 to 35, to call both parties to the controversy before it.

The Ballard letter ordered Mr. Levitan to remove a welcome sign from his office door and compared the sign to "a Jewish fire sale." Ballard was summoned before the house to explain his attitude.

Draws Fire From Solons.
Under fire from a dozen different members of the lower house, Mr. Ballard steadfastly refused to apologize for terms used in the letter and the assembly voted to appoint a committee of three to draw up "a proper resolution" on the controversy. This committee will be named on Friday.

Mr. Levitan brought the disputed sign before the assembly and explained his grievance. The sign declares:

"Uncle Sol, your state treasurer, welcomes you." Mr. Levitan asserted that Mr. Ballard could have asked him to remove the sign without the slur.

Ballard explained that he had meant no reflection on the Jewish people in his letter, but he made it plain that no apology would come from him.

Refuses to Apologize.

"If Levitan expects me to apologize he will wait a long time," Mr. Ballard declared. He explained that the sign came under the head of obliterating the capitalist.

But if the assembly wants something to investigate, Mr. Ballard said, he had something that would warrant its attention. He was stopped by Assemblyman Frank Prescott of Milwaukee.

"You have not been summoned here to make a political speech," Mr. Prescott shouted. "You were called up here to tell why you wrote such a nasty letter to such a great old man as Mr. Levitan."

Assemblyman Fred J. Petersen, Milwaukee, informed Mr. Ballard that his letter was not the kind that should be written by a state employe to one of the state's constitutional officers.

Nimble Thief Substitutes Fake Ring, Steals Real One

The nimble fingers of a well dressed young chap proved to be quicker than the eyes of H. Herzog, jeweler at 4041 Lincoln avenue, who learned after the man departed last night that he had substituted a practically worthless ring for a diamond studded wedding band valued at $75. "I guess I'd better talk to the girl before I buy," were the parting words of the thief.

as Goal for 1927.

BY J. L. JENKINS.

Chicago sent new armies of automobile salesmen to the great annual motor show yesterday, pushing actual car sales far above any single day's figures chalked up in twenty-seven years of the national showings.

Industrial leaders meanwhile put the finishing touches on the merchandising programs which promise to place more than 1,000,000 new cars in the hands of owners during the coming year.

Leaders Plan Campaign.

A. B. Erskine, president of Studebaker, C. W. Nash, president of the Nash property, H. H. Franklin, president of the Franklin Automobile company, E. S. Jordan, president of the Chrysler concern which bears his name, R. H. Grant, general sales manager of Chevrolet, whose organization is in the field of speed transmission cars last year, H. L. Cord, whose phenomenal sales of Auburn is one of the high lights of the industry, and Alfred Reeves, general manager of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, were among the big chiefs who made final preparations to keep the industry on an even keel through the year.

New models and values, the increasing need of transportation; the great number of families now purchasing two or more cars, and the growing demand for American made automobiles in foreign countries all are favorable factors for our industry," declared Mr. Reeves.

Calls Year's Success Certain.

These factors, coupled with sound economic conditions in the United States, make 1927 absolutely safe. There is no boom in prospect for the coming year, but it is certain to be one of prudent prosperity. It will enable motor manufacturing to continue in its premier position, with steel and most packing third, and other industries carrying on under about their present ratings.

America now must depend on the automobile industry as one of its fundamentals. That industry uses 15 per cent of all steel products, 53 per cent of plate glass, 49 per cent of upholstery leather, 89 per cent of imported leather, 29 per cent of aluminum products, and a vast proportion of American labor. As the industry rises, so rises the country, and that industry knows that 1927 will equal if not exceed the prosperity of 1925.

Installation buying of automobiles is one of the sound economic policies in the United States which will continue to stimulate business during the year," declared H. H. Franklin.

NOTES OF THE AUTO SHOW

A giant cake was one of the features of Studebaker's seventy-fifth birthday banquet held for middle west dealers, distributors and company officials last night in the Congress hotel.

J. R. Histed, general manager of the Chicago Hudson-Essex branch, told his auto show organization yesterday he has contracted for a total of 2,300 new cars for February delivery in this territory. This volume is nearly three times that of the month last year. He added the Hudson-Essex factory is now maintaining a production schedule of 1,200 cars a day.

R. A. Rawson, general sales manager for the Elcar, addressing more than 100 middle west dealers of the Rockford-Chicago organization yesterday, declared that Elcar's introduction of the new "shockless chassis" models already has broken the January sales records of twenty years of manufacturing.

William F. Pfeiffer, general manager of the Miller Rubber company, has personal direction of the Chicago introduction this week of the company's new balloon tire, on which the tread reaches around the tire from toe to toe, eliminating spotty wear and all other features of the new motor.

A cutaway chassis of the improved safety Stutz is one of the more interesting auto show features in Coliseum booths. It illustrates the operation of the worm gear, which has been employed to lower the car so effectively, of the hydrostatic brakes and all other features of the new motor.

Coincident with Marmon's display of its complete line at the show comes the announcement by H. H. Brooks, general sales director, that 157 new dealers and distributors have signed merchandising contracts since the small Marmon eight was introduced.

A woman defendant did not fare so well yesterday in the criminal courts, one being sentenced to the Bridewell for one year, though she is the mother of an 11 months old baby, and another being held for trial on a robbery charge.

Gene Hunter, 23 years old, who came from Huntington, W. Va., was in tears as she stood before Judge Harry B. Miller and tried to convince him that she did not know that her companion, Albert Weisbaum, was going to rob a taxicab chauffeur. Weisbaum pleaded guilty and was sentenced to from three to twenty years in the penitentiary. The girl will go on trial before a jury tomorrow.

These girl bandits and lures must be suppressed," said Judge Miller. "While there is no plea of guilty here, her guilt is obvious."

Mrs. Isabel Willis, 21 years old, was the woman sent to the Bridewell for a year. She and her husband, Carl, 23 years old, of 1911 Ogden avenue, were sentenced for shoplifting by Judge William J. Lindsay.

MISSING GIRL WIVES SHEP'S IN EAST. Johanna Nugent, 12 years old, ran away from her home at 3825 Southport avenue on Wednesday. Yesterday a telegram was received from her stating that she was in Tulsa, N. Y., and would write in a day or two.

A Child's Laxative which Mothers Can Rely On

DR. W. B. CALDWELL AT THE AGE OF 83

To Dr. W. B. Caldwell, of Monticello, Ill., a practicing physician for 47 years, it seemed cruel that so many constipated infants and children had to be kept "stirred up" and half sick by taking cathartic pills, tablets, salts, calomel and nasty oils.

While he knew that constipation was the cause of nearly all children's little ills, he constantly advised mothers to give only a harmless laxative which would help to establish natural bowel "regularity."

In Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin mothers have a regulating laxative which they can depend upon whenever a child is constipated, bilious, feverish or sick from a cold, indigestion or sour stomach. All children love its pleasant taste.

Buy a large 60-cent bottle at any store that sells medicine, or write "Syrup Pepsin," Monticello, Illinois, for a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE and just see for yourself how perfectly it cleanses and regulates the bowels of infants and children.

Elmer Enjoys Music Despite a Balky Set

And Connection Put Kink in School's Concert,

BY ELMER DOUGLASS.

It's here when the radio set goes wrong when there are good programs to be heard. I finally found that one block of the B battery had crossed its wires and electrified itself. A prompt replacement, and—

A few tantalizing selections of the piano recital wanted to hear by Lois Lynn Rogers, WLIB, scheduled at 7:15. Tantalizing because the three pieces heard revealed something a bit different in vitalized playing and other signs of individualism that I wished to analyze.

The next on the predetermined bill of fare was the Columbia School of Music concert with the Columbia Symphony orchestra and soloists. Orchestra hall, WMAQ, 8:15.

Well, wire connections with the hall were made all right, but they were not made right, and the orchestra played Tchaikovsky's "Marche Slave" to extraneous sounds including the voices of telephone girls and outside voices and a man stating, "I'm not going to argue with you, at all, there's nothing to it."

At 8:30 the station went dead. It returned at 8:41 in the midst of the first movement of MacDowell's piano concerto in A minor, Miss Helen B. Lawrence, soloist. But there was too much static in the modulation, and something, and its massive tones and spectacular playing by both orchestra and soloist were not clearly defined.

The orchestra's playing of the 2d and 3d movements (played in inverted order of Mendelssohn's "Italian" symphony) was broadcast more successfully, the 2d movement (the Pilgrims' March) being a decided novelty.

Lalo's "Symphonie Espagnole," with Aldo Del Mestier, violinist, as soloist, came through in admirable style as regards orchestra, but I felt that the soloist suffered from stage fright from the fact that as the number progressed the violin tones grew truer to pitch, better in tone, and better in everything.

Then came Arthur Kraft, tenor, in Beethoven's majestic "Adeleide," and with it Mr. Kraft's signally rich and stately voice that marvelous quality we have learned to expect from him. And the orchestra here was well-toned and perfect in accompaniment.

The concert was not concluded, but the station signed off at 10 o'clock. After this excitement, ten minutes with W-G-N's singularly smooth and lovely "Music Box" at 10:10, as any listener knows, came in as a soothing late evening sedative.

FOES OF RADIO COMPROMISE BILL HOLD UP ACTION

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.] Washington D. C., Feb. 3.—[Special.]—Opponents of the conference report on the radio bill blocked action in the senate today. The senate had the conference report under consideration for several hours without making much headway.

Senator Howell (Rep., Neb.) led an attack on the compromise measure. He made a point of order against the conference report on the ground that the conferees of the senate and house exceeded their authority in including a provision repealing an emergency resolution adopted last July. Vice President Dawes overruled the point of order and Senator Howell appealed from the decision. His appeal was tabled by a vote of 49 to 14.

Senator Howell also objected to provisions relating to vested rights of broadcasting stations and other features of the bill.

Senator Borah (Rep., Idaho) expressed disagreement with provisions which might permit a radio monopoly to obtain control of the broadcasting situation.

TRIBUNE COOK BOOK

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

Chocolate Puddings.

Letters like this from young women who sign with a "Miss" seem to prevail just now: "Will you please send me or publish your recipe for chocolate pudding? I had one of your recipes several years ago and I liked it so much. The only recipe I can find now are made without eggs."

I am not at all sure what my recipe for a chocolate pudding is, but I sent the following tested one to the writer of the above letter: Melt one ounce of chocolate over the fire in one-half cup of milk. When it has melted cook until the two are perfectly blended and the product is as smooth as velvet. Take this from the fire, add one-half cup of sugar and three level tablespoons of flour which have been wet up with a little milk. Then add more milk, making in all two full cups. Stir and cook this mixture over the fire until it is thick, and then after that, or after it boils up, cook for at least 10 minutes both to keep it from curdling of the thickening agent used, and to make it wholesome. It will not do any harm to cook this twenty minutes. Then beat an egg and pour over it with constant stirring and gradually add the hot mixture. Add one-half teaspoon of vanilla and then chill the pudding before serving it.

But we might use more eggs and have more of a custard as with this formula: One pint hot milk, one ounce chocolate, one-half cup of sugar, two eggs, flavoring and a pinch of salt. This mixture can be frozen. We might at first proceed as above, or cup up chocolate in a saucepan, add to it a little of the milk and cook until it is smooth and creamy and thickened. Every dark fleck should have disappeared and the color be as uniform as that of cream. Add the remainder of the milk and the sugar and cook till smooth. Fill into buttered cups and bake like any cup custard. This making enough for three or four cups.

Bright Sayings of the Children

The Tribune will pay $5 for each child's saying printed. The story told must never have been printed in any magazine or paper. It is not possible to acknowledge or return unsolicited contributions. Write on one side of the paper. Address bright sayings to Amy Bea, The Tribune, Chicago.

A friend of mine has a small son who, judging from his attitude, regards the frequent bath as an unnecessary evil and suffers his mother to administer his with a martyr like air of resignation.

Spending the night there recently, I partially undressed and was drawing the water for my nightly tub when I noticed him regarding me intently from the doorway.

After about two minutes of silence he asked, "Are you going to take a bath?"

To my reply in the affirmative he said rather disgustedly, "Well, I don't see a speck of dirt on you." E. S. M.

A FRIEND IN NEED

Coat and Shoes to Give.

"I have the following articles I wish to give some one in need: One heavy winter-coat, size 40; three pairs of slippers, one satin and two pairs of patent leather, size 5 1/2. These articles are almost new." E. E.

If these things are in your sizes and you are in need of them, let me know. This offer may solve a clothing problem for some one.

Abdominal Belt.

"I have an abdominal belt I will gladly give some deserving man who needs it. It is a large size, but can be made smaller." Mrs. C. L.

This belt will be a comfort and a blessing to any one who needs it. Thank you, Mrs. C. L.
